Lewis Issues Grim Warning On Parley Eve

Sees "Convulsion" When Aid Runs Out

WASHINGTON, June 6. — (AP) — John L. Lewis pictured "white anger" flaming through the coal mining areas when the 1946 union benefit fund runs out as he said it will on July 1.

It means that "desperately needed assistance" to more than 146,000 persons will be cut off—unless the untapped 1947 fund is made available, the outspoken United Mine Workers chieftain declared.

Besides infuriating the mining population, an end to the aid "will cause a major convulsion throughout the industry," he added.

Lewis did not explain this warning. He issued it in one of his rare public statements on the eve of negotiations for a new contract with the operators.

The union and the companies will sit down together at 10 a. m. EST—the union under orders from Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough who granted an injunction forcing Lewis to bargain with southern operators along with the rest of the industry.

Contract Expires June 10

The present coal contract expires June 30. The talks are certain to touch on miner welfare funds—now financed by a royalty of 10 cents a ton on all coal dug.

Collections have been made under two funds. The first begun in 1946 was built up with five cents a ton. Then last year, the 1947 fund was started. The agreement provided for taking over the 1946 fund.

However, an argument between Lewis and the operators over a system for paying pensions—newly authorized under the present contract—held it up. It eventually led to court action by Operator Ezra Van Horn to prevent payment on terms worked out by Lewis and Sen. Bridges (R-NH). The three men make up the Board of Trustees of the welfare fund.

Meanwhile, the 1946 welfare account has gone on providing for distress cases, death benefits, medical care and hospitalization.

Lewis said it will be exhausted July 1. He said that on May 29 it contained only $4,564,449. And for the next 10 months, distress benefits alone for 127,540 persons would cost $19,194,016, he said.

"The 1947 fund has the money," he asserted. "But it's locked up in the bank by the perfidious action of the coal operators."

26 Millions Collected In '46

The 1946 collections ran to $26,000,000. Commitments for their use were made by a Board of Trustees composed of Lewis, Navy Capt. Norman H. Collisson for the operators, and Thomas E. Murray, the neutral member.

Lewis' statement, issued through his newly-formed news bureau gave these illustrations "of the dire need of the miners and their families:"

It is estimated that 1,300 grants a week for distress benefits will be authorized this months.

Up to June, 56,911 distress benefit grants were authorized.

Grant beneficiaries total 127,540.

With other payments, total beneficiaries of the 1946 fund run to 146,980.

Among those receiving distress payments are 40,732 disabled miners, 16,038 widows of miners, 61,399 wives and children of disabled miners, and 9,230 miners' orphans.

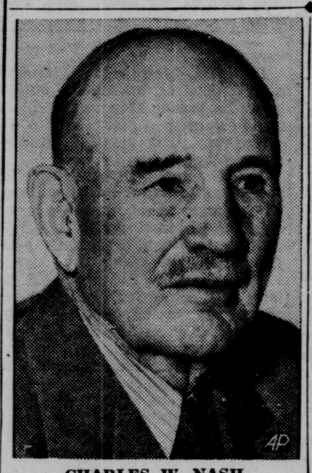

Gen. "Ike" To Assume Columbia Presidency

NEW YORK, June 6. (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will become president of Columbia University tomorrow, four years and a day after the Allied forces under his command stormed the Normandy beaches.

Eisenhower assumes the presidency without ceremony but his inaugural next October will be the occasion for a colorful academic show.

The former chief of staff, who is 57 years old, will be the 13th president of the university, founded 194 years ago.

Congress Facing Crucial Battle Over Billion Dollar Slash In Foreign Aid Fund

CHARLES W. NASH

Scrap Over Dollars Takes Senate Stage

WASHINGTON, June 6, (AP)—One of the most crucial battles of the current Congress—with issues of significance at home and abroad—shaped up today in the wake of the billion dollar House cut in the foreign spending program.

The immediate question is whether the Senate will act to restore the cuts and, if so, to what degree. The administration had asked $6,533,000,000 as a minimum outlay for 12 months. The House voted $5,980,000,000 for a 15-month period.

The House action will be aired first in the Senate Appropriations Committee and later on the Senate floor, with clashes sure on both occasions. If the Senate acts to restore part or all of the original authorizations, there will be another fight in the Senate-House conference. Then both houses will still have to accept whatever compromise is worked out.

All of this must be accomplished within the next two weeks if Congress is to hold to the Republican leadership's decision to adjourn on June 19.

The scrap over dollars is actually only a part of the much more basic struggle within Congress over the course of foreign policy and the extent to which this nation should go in giving economic and political support to nations in their fight to stand off Communism.

Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is reported to have told friends that unless the full amount of the funds is restored this nation will lose the so-called cold war with Russia.

He bolstered this by announcing over the weekend that he is asking to appear personally before the Senate Appropriations Committee "at the earliest possible opportunity." Within his own committee Vandenberg is assured of strong support.

European recovery funds bore the brunt of the House slash which Chairman Taber (R-NY), of the House Appropriations Committee, estimated at a "little more than $1,000,000,000."

Charles W. Nash, Auto Maker, Dies Of Heart Ailment

Quit Farming In 1890, Became Millionaire

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., June 6 (AP)—Charles W. Nash, 84, who rose from farm boy to millionaire automobile manufacturer, died today after a long illness.

Nash was stricken with a heart ailment two years ago but had remained active in the affairs of his motor company until about six months ago.

Surviving him are two daughters, Mrs. Mae Brenton and Mrs. C. H. Bliss.

Nash quit farming in 1890 and went to Flint, Mich., where he worked in a concern that later became the Durant-Dort Carriage Company, and in 10 years he had become vice president and general manager. He and William C. Durant ventured into automobile making when Durant purchased the Buick Motor Company in 1910 and made Nash president and general manager.

In 1912 Nash became president of General Motors but he resigned over policy differences with Durant and organized his own company, which put its first car on the market in 1917.

Nash was a tireless worker. Long hours were the rule with him and for a stretch of 46 years he took no vacation. He kept abreast of the times in industrial development and when the war brought demands for changes he and his company met the challenge and quickly converted to manufacturing airplane engines, propellers and other fighting equipment.

He was modest in his successes. His philosophy was typified by the remark he once made: "I don't believe in classes. One man in this world is just as good as another if he is just and honorable."

Nash shared some of his gains with his workers. He made annual distributions at Christmas in money and gifts. The amount of money given to workers was not publicly announced but was estimated to be about $1,000,000.

Nash was born in De Kalb County, Ill., January 28, 1864. He married Miss Jessie Hallack, of Burton Township, Mich., in 1884. She died last year.

Navy Developing New Antiaircraft Missile

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—The Navy is developing a guided missile to knock down enemy planes more than seven miles away.

The rocket-propelled missile will ride a radio beam to targets from 5,000 to 15,000 yards from the mother ship and will be ready for fleet installation by 1950.

Details of the guided missile and a glittering array of new weapons were disclosed in Navy Department appropriations hearings, made public on Capitol Hill.

The navy plans to build 50 of the new antiaircraft missiles at a cost of $25,500 each for training and study.

Vandenberg May Change Mind On His Availability

WASHINGTON, June 6, (AP) — Friends predicted today that a bitter congressional fight over restoring House-slashed foreign aid funds might put Sen. Arthur Vandenberg in a receptive mood toward the Republican presidential nomination.

Unless he changes his mind, associates said Vandenberg won't cast any new light on his availability for the nomination before the party's national convention meets in Philadelphia June 21.

The Michigan Senator has said he is not a candidate and doesn't want the nomination. But he never has said flatly that he won't take it.

House action cutting European recovery program funds apparently dismayed Vandenberg. Friends said he regarded it as a direct slap at the bi-partisan foreign policy under which he helped steer through Congress the original authorization bill for the program.

His readiness to take the lead in testifying for more funds before the Appropriations Committee — of which he isn't a member — was looked upon as a sign he is willing to go all out to keep this policy from getting a black eye.

Wallace Raps U. S. Policy In Germany

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace said today Russia rightfully opposes a United States policy in Germany which "would restore to power the very same men and groups" that created the Nazi war machine.

In a speech over a radio network, the third party presidential candidate accused "Wall Street trusts" and "Pentagon militarists" of blocking the road to a peaceful settlement of the German question. They, he said, "are gambling with America's future for their private profits and glory."

He characterized present American policy — which he said was endorsed by leaders of both the Republican and Democratic Parties —as an attempt to build up Western Germany, first economically and then militarily, against the Soviets.

"When they react," Wallace said, "we in turn will react against their reaction. Can't we see on this fourth anniversary of D-Day that this chain reaction can only lead us toward a bigger D-Day—toward the massacre of Russians and Americans and toward the destruction of the whole of Europe?"

92 Die In Turkish Flood

ISTANBUL, June 6. — (AP) — The death toll in the Amasya flood rose to 92 today with 40 others still missing.

Rescue missions arriving at the North Central Turkish city reported much of the city desolated by a wall of water that struck early Thursday. Many of the victims were killed under crumbling homes.

WHAT A MESS- A locomotive and 20 cars of a freight train derailed at a switch where a spur line connects with the main belt line at Reading, Pa. Three men were injured slightly.

Two-Year Draft Bill Placed Atop Legislative Heap

Congress Prepares To Labor Overtime

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP) — Congress put the two-year draft bill at the top of its legislative heap today and prepared to work overtime in a two weeks drive toward a June 19 finish.

Many headline bills — oleomargarine tax repeal, social security, civil rights, farm planning, and others—seemed in danger of being shouldered aside in the adjournment rush.

The Senate picks up debate on the selective service measure where it left off Friday night—with Sen. Langer (R-ND) holding the floor for an amendment to wipe out segregation in the armed forces.

But Langer told a reported he's had his say and will let others take over. A Republican-Democrat coalition is anxious to shelve the racial issue proposal and get about the business of grinding out the military bill.

House To Debate DP Bill

House leaders hope to tackle the draft measure before the week is out.

The House, in the meantime, arranged to debate a Senate- approved measure to let 200,000 of Europe's displaced persons into this country.

Fate of several far-reaching bills is uncertain. These include:

Oleomargarine tax repeal—Passed by the House and cleared by the Senate Finance Committee but awaiting a nod from Senate GOP leaders.

Long-range housing—The Senate-approved bill still is in the House Banking Committee but Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich.), of that group, said some bill will be passed, probably minus public housing provisions.

Social security—An extension of benefits is awaiting House consideration. Senate action appears unlikely.

Tax revision—Numerous technical changes in tax laws are ready for House action but the Senate may not act.

Senate OK'd Education Bill

Aid to education—The Senate has passed a bill but House leaders seem uninterested.

Civil rights—Senate leaders still talk about action on anti-lynch or anti-poll tax but time is short. Any such measure adoped probably would be tacked onto some other bill in the final rush.

Farm legislation—A long-range farm plan appears stalled in both houses but House leaders are pushing for an extension of postwar government supports on numerous farm commodities that expire at the end of 1948.

Government pay raise — Senate and House leaders have been unable to reach agreement on amounts but may do so.

Michael, Princess Anne Leave Geneva For Athens

GENEVA, June 6. — (AP) — Exiled King Michael, of Romania, and his fiancee, Princess Anne, of Bourbon-Parma, left Geneva by plane tonight for Athens where they are scheduled to be married Thursday.

Nebraska Party Leader Will Not Support Truman

OMAHA, June 6 (AP)—Nebraska Democratic Chairman William Ritchie said today the Nebraska delegation to the Democratic national convention "is badly split," and that he himself has withdrawn his support from President Truman as a result of the President's visit in Omaha Saturday.

Ritchie, one of the 12 Nebraska delegates to the convention, declared Nebraska and Iowa Democrats "were given the bums rush" during the President's Omaha visit.

He claimed arrangements for the visit were "in the hands of Republicans" and as a result only 2,000 persons turned out to hear the President's speech at Ak-Sar-Ben Coliseum, which seats 10,000 Saturday night.

Ritchie said "the Democratic Party needs a new nominee for President." He added that a number of others of the Nebraska delegates "feel as I do."

New Flood Crest Pounds Weakened Columbia Levees

Level Will Almost Reach Earlier Peak

PORTLAND, Ore., June 6—(AP)—The second Columbia River flood crest to strike this metropolitan area within a week is battering levees protecting Northeast Portland tonight.

Treacherous high waters of the Northwest's greatest disaster will remain in the lower valley for a week or longer.

Floods in four Pacific Northwest states and British Columbia already have taken the lives of 26 persons, destroyed the Vanport homes of 18,700—where 45 children and seven adults are still unaccounted for—and left an estimated 60,000 homeless in the region.

Damage in the wake of the two-week-old crest now spilling into the Pacific has soared to $140,000,000 and may go higher.

The government river forecaster said today the new crest caused by melting snows in the mountain headwaters of the Columbia will raise to "within a hair" of the highest stage that swept through the Portland-Vancouver sector last Tuesday.

Dikes Under Constant Patrol

Dikes weakened by the more than two weeks of high water are under constant patrol of troops and civilians tonight. Some are leaking. Sandbag battalions are fighting to prevent a major breakthrough along a 20-mile stretch of the North Portland main bulwark against the Columbia.

A small dike burst in the Clatskanie sector this morning where high waters of the two-week-old flood crest crashed against an incoming tide.

Thousands of troops, coast guardsmen and civilians are working on the 43 dike districts from Portland to near Astoria, Ore., at the mouth of the great river.

The Coast Guard has put an airplane on patrol duty over the flood stricken zone and a flotilla of cutters and auxiliary craft on the river. A fleet of radio-phone trucks

Truman Promises To Dig Gift Spurs Into Lawmakers

President Attends Kearney, Neb., Church

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN ENROUTE WESTWARD, June 6, (AP)—President Truman took on all comers at a Wyoming reception today and offered to take on Congress when he returns east.

Along the way from Omaha, he collected the equipment to do a little goading of Congress, and promised to use it.

It was silver spurs at Grand Island, Neb., first thing this morning. At Kearney, he added a pair of cowboy boots. And across the line in Cheyenne. Wyo., a 10-gallon sombrero. At Kearney, he went to church and at stops on the route on his special train he told wayside audiences they ought to, too. But he omitted any discussion of political issues on the Sabbath.

Late in the day, the presidential special rolled into Cheyenne. Mr. Truman drove to the Governor's mansion, spoke to perhaps 2,500 people, and agreed to shake hands with as many of them as he could. Only a few hundred made it.

That was new technique. Presidents ordinarily don't just wander into a town and meet whoever turns up. The Secret Service doesn't like it, for one thing.

Governor Introduces Trumans

But things are different in an election year.

Gov. Lester Hunt introduced Mr. Truman. And later he introduced Mrs. Truman and daughter Margaret, Mrs. Hunt and finally Gov. Lee Knous of next-door Colorado.

The President said he wanted to come back some time "when I can talk to you straight from the shoulder on certain things that confront this country."

From Ace Tyrell, director of Cheyenne frontier days celebration, the President got a printed, personal invitation to the event next month, plus the cowboy hat.

Mr. Truman grinned, said he'd like to see frontier days, and remarked: "I'm going to see how this hat works."

"You look like a real westerner," an onlooker told him.

Lt. H. A. Dickson, of the state police, estimated the crowd at the Governor's mansion at 2,500. He figured perhaps as many more people saw the President along the way from the station.

Drives Mile To Church

In a talk at Grand Island, Neb., where several hundred people swarmed over the railroad track, Mr. Truman exhibited his new silver spurs and said:

"Those spurs are wonderful. When I get them on, I can take the Congress to town. Don't think I can't. I'll give them a trial just as soon as I get back to Washington."

At Kearney, a lot of people missed church to watch the Trumans drive a mile from the station to the First Baptist Church.

Rev. Vernon P. Pearson welcomed the first family to "this sanctuary and this city" and delivered a sermon on "The Essence of Christianity."

The red brick church, shaped like a cross, was overflowing with people in their Sunday best. Four large baskets of pink and white peonies flanked the pastor.

The President and Mrs. Truman joined in the hymns only occasionally, but Margaret went right through them from start to finish.

Harold Stassen To Visit Baltimore On Thursday

BALTIMORE, June 7 (AP) — Harold E. Stassen will pay a return visit to Baltimore Thursday in a bid for Maryland support of his presidential aspirations at the forthcoming Republican national convention.

This was announced today by George Cochran Doub, Baltimore attorney and Stassen's political adviser in Maryland.

The former Minnesota Governor's brief visit will be climaxed by a dinner Thursday night. Guests will include the Maryland Republican delegates to the party's national convention.

The candidate will arrive in Baltimore by plane at 3 p. m. (EDT), hold a press conference shortly afterward, broadcast at 6 p. m. and attend the dinner in his honor at 6:15, Doub said.

Withdraws Sen. Capper Won't Seek Re-election

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—Sen. Arthur Capper, 82, (R-Kan.) oldest member of the Senate and chairman of the Agriculture Committee, announced today he will not run for re-election.

Capper's statement, issued from his office, was a complete surprise. He had announced as a candidate and had subsequently said he intended to stay in the race.

Capper entered the Senate in 1919. His term will end next January.

He is the second oldest member in point of service. Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn.) entered the senate two years before him.

Capper's Statement

The Capper statement:

"I have decided not to run for re-election to the United States Senate, and accordingly shall not file for the Republican nomination. The last day for filing with the Secretary of State at Topeka is June 21. Having reached this decision, I feel it should be announced promptly.

"I appreciate more deeply than I can express the honor that the people of Kansas have accorded me by keeping me in the Senate as their representative for 30 years. I have tried to represent them honestly and to the best of my ability. I am retiring at the close of my present term with few regrets and many pleasant memories and friendships."

Capper, besides heading the Agriculture Committee, is a member of the Foreign Relations Committee and the District of Columbia Committee.

Field Open To Ex-Governor

With Capper's decision to retire, the field is open to former Gov. Andrew F. Schoeppel, who now is the only announced candidate in Kansas for the Republican nomination for senator.

Public efforts to get Capper to withdraw began with an editorial by William L. White in the Emporia, Kas., Gazette. Subsequently, Roy A. Roberts, president of the Kansas City Star, announced his newspaper would not support the veteran senator for re-election.

Speaking at a University of Kansas student assembly on May 12, Roberts said a younger and more aggressive man than Capper was needed in the Senate to deal with peace of the world.

Texas Hotel Fire Takes Four Lives

KILGORE, Tex., June 6 (AP)—Four persons were burned to death early today when a flash fire gutted the two-story Tulsa Hotel here.

Three of the four victims were identified as George Clifton Young, Jacksonville, Tex.; Gerald Lee, 19, Odin, Ill., and Victor Eason, 31, Kilgore.

The fourth victim remained unidentified tonight. The body was first identified as that of Roy Evans, 35, Bowling Green, Ky., but Leroy Rader, Kilgore funeral director, said that Evans was located.

More than two dozen other guests in the hotel fled to safety. Five of them were hospitalized. One was not expected to live.

Fire Chief W. J. McBride said the cause of the early morning blaze was still undetermined. It started on the second floor of the brick building.

The loss was unofficially estimated at $150,000.

Mike Carlton, 45, a Kilgore dirt contractor, said he was drinking coffee in the hotel cafe at 5 a. m. when he heard someone shout "fire."

"I ran up to the second floor and started routing people out of their rooms. I banged doors and told 'em to get out," he said.

One of the guests thanked his lucky star he was an early riser.

"Soon after I got up at 4:30," he said, "I heard people screaming. I ran out of the door of my room and smoke was thick and heavy and fire was roaring through the hall."

Profitable Business

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—The 16 states which monopolize liquor sales in their borders made a $147,000,000 net profit from the business in their 1947 fiscal years, the Census Bureau reported tonight.

Arab Reports Indicate Snag Encountered

Intensive Military Operations Continue

CAIRO, June 6—(AP)—The government of Israel said tonight the United Nations mediator probably would decide tomorrow the timetable for a four-week truce in the Palestine war.

Reports from the Arab world, however, indicated negotiations for the cease fire had hit a snag and that efforts to engineer at least a temporry end to the bloody fighting were in danger of failing.

The Israeli government said in a communique, after its foreign minister, Moshe Shertok, talked with the mediator, Count Folke Bernadotte, in Haifa today:

"It was understood that Count Bernadotte is expected to make up his mind finally during the course of tomorrow when he would communicate his conclusions to both sides, propose the deadline and expect the reply."

Nevertheless, a dispatch from Amman, where Bernadotte also conferred with King Abdullah during the day, said the truce agreement appeared to be breaking up. It had been accepted in principle last Wednesday by both the Jews and Arabs.

The Arabs blamed the deadlock on Jewish insistance that immigration into the Holy Land be allowed to continue and that the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway be kept open.

Tel Aviv Threats Blunted

Intensive military operations were in progress while the truce negotiations were being carried on.

Israeli troops forced a half-circle around Arab concentrations on the northeastern approaches of Tel Aviv and drove within three and a half miles of strategic Tulkarm, Jewish leaders said.

Israeli planes hammered Tulkarm itself. The Jewish bulletin said large fires were touched off in an Arab military camp in that city, the western anchor of the Arabs' Tulkarm-Jenin-Nablus triangle.

According to Jewish accounts this was the second major threat to Tel Aviv which Jewish forces have blunted in the last two days. The first one—a drive by Egyptian forces up the Palestine coast—was thrown back at Yibna, 14 miles south of Israel's capital.

King Abdullah's Legionnaires hurled 100 shells today into Jewish-held districts of modern Jerusalem after Israeli infantry made another unsuccessful attempt to storm the old city's Zion Gate.

The Jewish attack was abandoned after three hours of close quarter fighting failed to dislodge the Legionnaires from their machine-gun posts in the thick walls of the old city.

Bernadotte, the United Nations mediator in Palestine, was grim-faced and noncommittal following his talks with Abdullah and Trans-Jordan Foreign Minister Fawzi Pasha Malki in Amman.

Thursday Reported Target Date

Ralph Bunche, of the United Nations Secretariat, indicated the negotiations were not going well when he told newsmen: "We still have hope." A neutral source is Amman said the target-date for getting the truce operative had been moved back until Thursday.

Abdullah said he did not discuss a truce with Bernadotte since the problem must be handled by the Arab League's Political Committee which is expected to meet in Cairo in a few days.

Grenade Injures Three Newsmen In Jerusalem

JERUSALEM, Saturday, June 5 (AP) — Three newspapermen were wounded today when a hand grenade was accidentally exploded as they walked across a square.

Sidney Smith, of the London Daily Express, and James Days, of Britain's Kemsley newspapers were wounded in the legs. Carter L. Davidson, of the Associated Press, was slightly hurt on the left arm.

The trio was walking over an area which has been the scene of bitter fighting for the Holy City when one of them accidentally kicked the grenade.

Arrest Ends Love Flight Of Bride And Salesman

WICHITA, Kas., June 6 (AP)—A 17 - year - old bride and a man charged with kidnapping her in a love flight were arrested here today at the request of Pennsylvania authorities.

The girl, Mrs. Mary Kalinoski, York, Pa., disappeared May 28, a few days before she was to have graduated from high school. Held with her was Arthur Deets, Jr., 23, Kingston, Pa., a salesman who also is married.

A charge of kidnaping against Deets was filed at York by Thomas T. Kalinoski, 25, New Britain, Conn., who said he and the girl were secretly married on April 15.

Detective Frank Parsons, of the Wichita police, said Deets and Mrs. Kalinoski told him they had been in love since they met a year ago. The detective quoted Deets as saying, "I grew lonesome for her and called her."

Parsons said Deets then drove to York, picked up Mrs. Kalinoski and they came to Wichita June 3. The detective said they had been living together at a hotel, where they were registered as man and wife.

Both Deets and the girl have waived extradition, police said.

Mrs. Kalinoski disappeared only a few hours before her husband arrived from Connecticut to attend her graduation from York High School. Kalinoski said the couple intended to announce their marriage at the time of her graduation.

Contacted at York today, Kalinoski said he will continue to press both the abduction and kidnapping charges until he gets more details.

Power Line Short Charges Pool, Killing One Swimmer

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 6 (AP)—A short circuit charged a public swimming pool with electricity today, killing one swimmer and injuring several others.

Dr. Winfield Yarnell, deputy corner, said a short circuit in an underground power line at the Gay-Way swimming pool caused the current to reach a steel ladder in the pool and charged the water in a 15-foot semi-circle around the ladder.

Dr. Yarnell, identified the dead swimmer as Clyde Peters, Harrisburg. He said the 12-year-old boy died of electric burns.

Peters and another swimmer, Rosemary Fritsch, 11, were within the charged area at the time of the short circuit. Dr. Yarnell said both swimmers suddenly stiffened and sank beneath the water.

Other swimmers further away felt the shock, but were able to scramble from the pool. Two youths who watched Peters and the girl sink under the water, leaped in after them, but were instantly paralyzed and had to be helped from the pool.

One of the rescuers, Robert Foltz, told a reporter that when he jumped in the water, "I felt as though I was paralyzed from the waist down. I could hardly move my muscles."

He said he managed to help the Fritsch girl and Peters from the water but that "when I grabbed the ladder to climb out myself, I couldn't move." Other swimmers hauled him to safety.

Peters and the girl were taken to Polyclinic Hospital, where the boy died. The girl was treated and released. She was not hurt seriously.

Lewis Issues Grim Warning On Parley Eve

Sees "Convulsion" When Aid Runs Out

WASHINGTON, June 6. — (AP) — John L. Lewis pictured "white anger" flaming through the coal mining areas when the 1946 union benefit fund runs out as he said it will on July 1.

It means that "desperately needed assistance" to more than 146,000 persons will be cut off—unless the untapped 1947 fund is made available, the outspoken United Mine Workers chieftain declared.

Besides infuriating the mining population, an end to the aid "will cause a major convulsion throughout the industry," he added.

Lewis did not explain this warning. He issued it in one of his rare public statements on the eve of negotiations for a new contract with the operators.

The union and the companies will sit down together at 10 a. m. EST—the union under orders from Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough who granted an injunction forcing Lewis to bargain with southern operators along with the rest of the industry.

It eventually led to court action by Operator Ezra Van Horn to prevent payment on terms worked out by Lewis and Sen. Bridges (R-NH). The three men make up the Board of Trustees of the welfare fund.

Meanwhile, the 1946 welfare account has gone on providing for distress cases, death benefits, medical care and hospitalization.

Lewis said it will be exhausted July 1. He said that on May 29 it contained only $4,564,449. And for the next 10 months, distress benefits alone for 127,540 persons would cost $19,194,016, he said.

"The 1947 fund has the money," he asserted. "But it's locked up in the bank by the perfidious action of the coal operators."

26 Millions Collected In '46

The 1946 collections ran to $26,000,000. Commitments for their use were made by a Board of Trustees composed of Lewis, Navy Capt. Norman H. Collisson for the operators, and Thomas E. Murray, the neutral member.

Lewis' statement, issued through his newly-formed news bureau gave these illustrations "of the dire need of the miners and their families:"

It is estimated that 1,300 grants a week for distress benefits will be authorized this months.

Up to June, 56,911 distress benefit grants were authorized.

Grant beneficiaries total 127,540.

With other payments, total beneficiaries of the 1946 fund run to 146,980.

Among those receiving distress payments are 40,732 disabled miners, 16,038 widows of miners, 61,399 wives and children of disabled miners, and 9,230 miners' orphans.

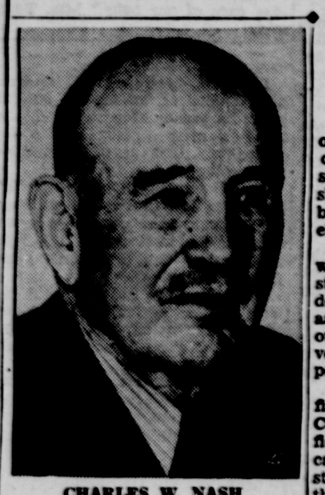

Gen. "Ike" To Assume Columbia Presidency

NEW YORK, June 6. (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will become president of Columbia University tomorrow, four years and a day after the Allied forces under his command stormed the Normandy beaches.

Eisenhower assumes the presidency without ceremony but his inaugural next October will be the occasion for a colorful academic show.

The former chief of staff, who is 57 years old, will be the 13th president of the university, founded 194 years ago.

Congress Facing Crucial Battle Over Billion Dollar Slash In Foreign Aid Fund

CHARLES W. NASH

Scrap Over Dollars Takes Senate Stage

WASHINGTON, June 6, (AP)—One of the most crucial battles of the current Congress—with issues of significance at home and abroad—shaped up today in the wake of the billion dollar House cut in the foreign spending program.

The immediate question is whether the Senate will act to restore the cuts and, if so, to what degree. The administration had asked $6,533,000,000 as a minimum outlay for 12 months. The House voted $5,980,000,000 for a 15-month period.

The House action will be aired first in the Senate Appropriations Committee and later on the Senate floor, with clashes sure on both occasions. If the Senate acts to restore part or all of the original authorizations, there will be another fight in the Senate-House conference. Then both houses will still have to accept whatever compromise is worked out.

All of this must be accomplished within the next two weeks if Congress is to hold to the Republican leadership's decision to adjourn on June 19.

The scrap over dollars is actually only a part of the much more basic struggle within Congress over the course of foreign policy and the extent to which this nation should go in giving economic and political support to nations in their fight to stand off Communism.

Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is reported to have told friends that unless the full amount of the funds is restored this nation will lose the so-called cold war with Russia.

He bolstered this by announcing over the weekend that he is asking to appear personally before the Senate Appropriations Committee "at the earliest possible opportunity." Within his own committee Vandenberg is assured of strong support.

European recovery funds bore the brunt of the House slash which Chairman Taber (R-NY), of the House Appropriations Committee, estimated at a "little more than $1,000,000,000."

Charles W. Nash, Auto Maker, Dies Of Heart Ailment

Quit Farming In 1890, Became Millionaire

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., June 6 (AP)—Charles W. Nash, 84, who rose from farm boy to millionaire automobile manufacturer, died today after a long illness.

Nash was stricken with a heart ailment two years ago but had remained active in the affairs of his motor company until about six months ago.

Surviving him are two daughters, Mrs. Mae Brenton and Mrs. C. H. Bliss.

Nash quit farming in 1890 and went to Flint, Mich., where he worked in a concern that later became the Durant-Dort Carriage Company, and in 10 years he had become vice president and general manager. He and William C. Durant ventured into automobile making when Durant purchased the Buick Motor Company in 1910 and made Nash president and general manager.

In 1912 Nash became president of General Motors but he resigned over policy differences with Durant and organized his own company, which put its first car on the market in 1917.

Nash was a tireless worker. Long hours were the rule with him and for a stretch of 46 years he took no vacation. He kept abreast of the times in industrial development and when the war brought demands for changes he and his company met the challenge and quickly converted to manufacturing airplane engines, propellers and other fighting equipment.

He was modest in his successes. His philosophy was typified by the remark he once made: "I don't believe in classes. One man in this world is just as good as another if he is just and honorable."

Nash shared some of his gains with his workers. He made annual distributions at Christmas in money and gifts. The amount of money given to workers was not publicly announced but was estimated to be about $1,000,000.

Nash was born in De Kalb County, Ill., January 28, 1864. He married Miss Jessie Hallack, of Burton Township, Mich., in 1884. She died last year.

Navy Developing New Antiaircraft Missile

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—The Navy is developing a guided missile to knock down enemy planes more than seven miles away.

The rocket-propelled missile will ride a radio beam to targets from 5,000 to 15,000 yards from the mother ship and will be ready for fleet installation by 1950.

Details of the guided missile and a glittering array of new weapons were disclosed in Navy Department appropriations hearings, made public on Capitol Hill.

The navy plans to build 50 of the new antiaircraft missiles at a cost of $25,500 each for training and study.

Vandenberg May Change Mind On His Availability

WASHINGTON, June 6, (AP) — Friends predicted today that a bitter congressional fight over restoring House-slashed foreign aid funds might put Sen. Arthur Vandenberg in a receptive mood toward the Republican presidential nomination.

Unless he changes his mind, associates said Vandenberg won't cast any new light on his availability for the nomination before the party's national convention meets in Philadelphia June 21.

The Michigan Senator has said he is not a candidate and doesn't want the nomination. But he never has said flatly that he won't take it.

House action cutting European recovery program funds apparently dismayed Vandenberg. Friends said he regarded it as a direct slap at the bi-partisan foreign policy under which he helped steer through Congress the original authorization bill for the program.

His readiness to take the lead in testifying for more funds before the Appropriations Committee — of which he isn't a member — was looked upon as a sign he is willing to go all out to keep this policy from getting a black eye.

Wallace Raps U. S. Policy In Germany

NEW YORK, June 6 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace said today Russia rightfully opposes a United States policy in Germany which "would restore to power the very same men and groups" that created the Nazi war machine.

In a speech over a radio network, the third party presidential candidate accused "Wall Street trusts" and "Pentagon militarists" of blocking the road to a peaceful settlement of the German question. They, he said, "are gambling with America's future for their private profits and glory."

He characterized present American policy — which he said was endorsed by leaders of both the Republican and Democratic Parties —as an attempt to build up Western Germany, first economically and then militarily, against the Soviets.

"When they react," Wallace said, "we in turn will react against their reaction. Can't we see on this fourth anniversary of D-Day that this chain reaction can only lead us toward a bigger D-Day—toward the massacre of Russians and Americans and toward the destruction of the whole of Europe?"

Wallace urged a return to the principles agreed upon at Potsdam for making peace with Germany.

92 Die In Turkish Flood

ISTANBUL, June 6. — (AP) — The death toll in the Amasya flood rose to 92 today with 40 others still missing.

Rescue missions arriving at the North Central Turkish city reported much of the city desolated by a wall of water that struck early Thursday. Many of the victims were killed under crumbling homes.

WHAT A MESS— A locomotive and 20 cars of a freight train derailed at a switch where a spur line connects with the main belt line at Reading, Pa. Three men were injured slightly.

Two-Year Draft Bill Placed Atop Legislative Heap

Congress Prepares To Labor Overtime

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP) — Congress put the two-year draft bill at the top of its legislative heap today and prepared to work overtime in a two weeks drive toward a June 19 finish.

Many headline bills — oleomargarine tax repeal, social security, civil rights, farm planning, and others—seemed in danger of being shouldered aside in the adjournment rush.

The Senate picks up debate on the selective service measure where it left off Friday night—with Sen. Langer (R-ND) holding the floor for an amendment to wipe out segregation in the armed forces.

But Langer told a reported he's had his say and will let others take over. A Republican-Democrat coalition is anxious to shelve the racial issue proposal and get about the business of grinding out the military bill.

House To Debate DP Bill

House leaders hope to tackle the draft measure before the week is out.

The House, in the meantime, arranged to debate a Senate- approved measure to let 200,000 of Europe's displaced persons into this country.

Fate of several far-reaching bills is uncertain. These include:

Oleomargarine tax repeal—Passed by the House and cleared by the Senate Finance Committee but awaiting a nod from Senate GOP leaders.

Long-range housing—The Senate-approved bill still is in the House Banking Committee but Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich.), of that group, said some bill will be passed, probably minus public housing provisions.

Social security—An extension of benefits is awaiting House consideration. Senate action appears unlikely.

Tax revision—Numerous technical changes in tax laws are ready for House action but the Senate may not act.

Senate OK'd Education Bill

Aid to education—The Senate has passed a bill but House leaders seem uninterested.

Civil rights—Senate leaders still talk about action on anti-lynch or anti-poll tax but time is short. Any such measure adoped probably would be tacked onto some other bill in the final rush.

Farm legislation—A long-range farm plan appears stalled in both houses but House leaders are pushing for an extension of postwar government supports on numerous farm commodities that expire at the end of 1948.

Government pay raise — Senate and House leaders have been unable to reach agreement on amounts but may do so.

Michael, Princess Anne Leave Geneva For Athens

GENEVA, June 6. — (AP) — Exiled King Michael, of Romania, and his fiancee, Princess Anne, of Bourbon-Parma, left Geneva by plane tonight for Athens where they are scheduled to be married Thursday.

Nebraska Party Leader Will Not Support Truman

OMAHA, June 6 (AP)—Nebraska Democratic Chairman William Ritchie said today the Nebraska delegation to the Democratic national convention "is badly split," and that he himself has withdrawn his support from President Truman as a result of the President's visit in Omaha Saturday.

Ritchie, one of the 12 Nebraska delegates to the convention, declared Nebraska and Iowa Democrats "were given the bums rush" during the President's Omaha visit.

He claimed arrangements for the visit were "in the hands of Republicans" and as a result only 2,000 persons turned out to hear the President's speech at Ak-Sar-Ben Coliseum, which seats 10,000 Saturday night.

Ritchie said "the Democratic Party needs a new nominee for President." He added that a number of others of the Nebraska delegates "feel as I do."

New Flood Crest Pounds Weakened Columbia Levees

Level Will Almost Reach Earlier Peak

PORTLAND, Ore., June 6—(AP)—The second Columbia River flood crest to strike this metropolitan area within a week is battering levees protecting Northeast Portland tonight.

Treacherous high waters of the Northwest's greatest disaster will remain in the lower valley for a week or longer.

Floods in four Pacific Northwest states and British Columbia already have taken the lives of 26 persons, destroyed the Vanport homes of 18,700—where 45 children and seven adults are still unaccounted for—and left an estimated 60,000 homeless in the region.

Damage in the wake of the two-week-old crest now spilling into the Pacific has soared to $140,000,000 and may go higher.

The government river forecaster said today the new crest caused by melting snows in the mountain headwaters of the Columbia will raise to "within a hair" of the highest stage that swept through the Portland-Vancouver sector last Tuesday.

Dikes Under Constant Patrol

Dikes weakened by the more than two weeks of high water are under constant patrol of troops and civilians tonight. Some are leaking. Sandbag battalions are fighting to prevent a major breakthrough along a 20-mile stretch of the North Portland main bulwark against the Columbia.

A small dike burst in the Clatskanie sector this morning where high waters of the two-week-old flood crest crashed against an incoming tide.

Thousands of troops, coast guardsmen and civilians are working on the 43 dike districts from Portland to near Astoria, Ore., at the mouth of the great river.

The Coast Guard has put an airplane on patrol duty over the flood stricken zone and a flotilla of cutters and auxiliary craft on the river. A fleet of radio-phone trucks

Truman Promises To Dig Gift Spurs Into Lawmakers

President Attends Kearney, Neb., Church

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN ENROUTE WESTWARD, June 6, (AP)—President Truman took on all comers at a Wyoming reception today and offered to take on Congress when he returns east.

Along the way from Omaha, he collected the equipment to do a little goading of Congress, and promised to use it.

It was silver spurs at Grand Island, Neb., first thing this morning. At Kearney, he added a pair of cowboy boots. And across the line in Cheyenne, Wyo., a 10-gallon sombrero. At Kearney, he went to church and at stops on the route on his special train he told wayside audiences they ought to, too. But he omitted any discussion of political issues on the Sabbath.

Late in the day, the presidential special rolled into Cheyenne. Mr. Truman drove to the Governor's mansion, spoke to perhaps 2,500 people, and agreed to shake hands with as many of them as he could. Only a few hundred made it.

That was new technique. Presidents ordinarily don't just wander into a town and meet whoever turns up. The Secret Service doesn't like it, for one thing.

Governor Introduces Trumans

But things are different in an election year.

Gov. Lester Hunt introduced Mr. Truman. And later he introduced Mrs. Truman and daughter Margaret, Mrs. Hunt and finally Gov. Lee Knous of next-door Colorado.

The President said he wanted to come back some time "when I can talk to you straight from the shoulder on certain things that confront this country."

From Ace Tyrell, director of Cheyenne frontier days celebration, the President got a printed, personal invitation to the event next month, plus the cowboy hat.

Mr. Truman grinned, said he'd like to see frontier days, and remarked: "I'm going to see how this hat works."

"You look like a real westerner," an onlooker told him.

Lt. H. A. Dickson, of the state police, estimated the crowd at the Governor's mansion at 2,500. He figured perhaps as many more people saw the President along the way from the station.

From Cheyenne, the tour headed westward, with a stop at Sun Valley, Idaho, planned for tomorrow night.

Drives Mile To Church

In a talk at Grand Island, Neb., where several hundred people swarmed over the railroad track, Mr. Truman exhibited his new silver spurs and said:

"Those spurs are wonderful. When I get them on, I can take the Congress to town. Don't think I can't. I'll give them a trial just as soon as I get back to Washington."

At Kearney, a lot of people missed church to watch the Trumans drive a mile from the station to the First Baptist Church.

Rev. Vernon P. Pearson welcomed the first family to "this sanctuary and this city" and delivered a sermon on "The Essence of Christianity."

The red brick church, shaped like a cross, was overflowing with people in their Sunday best. Four large baskets of pink and white peonies flanked the pastor.

The President and Mrs. Truman joined in the hymns only occasionally, but Margaret went right through them from start to finish.

Harold Stassen To Visit Baltimore On Thursday

BALTIMORE, June 7 (AP) — Harold E. Stassen will pay a return visit to Baltimore Thursday in a bid for Maryland support of his presidential aspirations at the forthcoming Republican national convention.

This was announced today by George Cochran Doub, Baltimore attorney and Stassen's political adviser in Maryland.

The former Minnesota Governor's brief visit will be climaxed by a dinner Thursday night. Guests will include the Maryland Republican delegates to the party's national convention.

The candidate will arrive in Baltimore by plane at 3 p. m. (EDT), hold a press conference shortly afterward, broadcast at 6 p. m. and attend the dinner in his honor at 6:15, Doub said.

Withdraws Sen. Capper Won't Seek Re-election

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—Sen. Arthur Capper, 82, (R-Kan.) oldest member of the Senate and chairman of the Agriculture Committee, announced today he will not run for re-election.

Capper's statement, issued from his office, was a complete surprise. He had announced as a candidate and had subsequently said he intended to stay in the race.

Capper entered the Senate in 1919. His term will end next January.

He is the second oldest member in point of service. Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn.) entered the senate two years before him.

Capper's Statement

The Capper statement:

"I have decided not to run for re-election to the United States Senate, and accordingly shall not file for the Republican nomination. The last day for filing with the Secretary of State at Topeka is June 21. Having reached this decision, I feel it should be announced promptly.

"I appreciate more deeply than I can express the honor that the people of Kansas have accorded me by keeping me in the Senate as their representative for 30 years. I have tried to represent them honestly and to the best of my ability. I am retiring at the close of my present term with few regrets and many pleasant memories and friendships."

Capper, besides heading the Agriculture Committee, is a member of the Foreign Relations Committee and the District of Columbia Committee.

Field Open To Ex-Governor

With Capper's decision to retire, the field is open to former Gov. Andrew F. Schoeppel, who now is the only announced candidate in Kansas for the Republican nomination for senator.

Public efforts to get Capper to withdraw began with an editorial by William L. White in the Emporia, Kas., Gazette. Subsequently, Roy A. Roberts, president of the Kansas City Star, announced his newspaper would not support the veteran senator for re-election.

Speaking at a University of Kansas student assembly on May 12, Roberts said a younger and more aggressive man than Capper was needed in the Senate to deal with peace of the world.

Texas Hotel Fire Takes Four Lives

KILGORE, Tex., June 6 (AP)—Four persons were burned to death early today when a flash fire gutted the two-story Tulsa Hotel here.

Three of the four victims were identified as George Clifton Young, Jacksonville, Tex.; Gerald Lee, 19, Odin, Ill., and Victor Eason, 31, Kilgore.

The fourth victim remained unidentified tonight. The body was first identified as that of Roy Evans, 35, Bowling Green, Ky., but Leroy Rader, Kilgore funeral director, said that Evans was located.

More than two dozen other guests in the hotel fled to safety. Five of them were hospitalized. One was not expected to live.

Fire Chief W. J. McBride said the cause of the early morning blaze was still undetermined. It started on the second floor of the brick building.

The loss was unofficially estimated at $150,000.

Mike Carlton, 45, a Kilgore dirt contractor, said he was drinking coffee in the hotel cafe at 5 a. m. when he heard someone shout "fire."

"I ran up to the second floor and started routing people out of their rooms. I banged doors and told 'em to get out," he said.

One of the guests thanked his lucky star he was an early riser.

"Soon after I got up at 4:30," he said, "I heard people screaming. I ran out of the door of my room and smoke was thick and heavy and fire was roaring through the hall."

Profitable Business

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—The 16 states which monopolize liquor sales in their borders made a $147,000,000 net profit from the business in their 1947 fiscal years, the Census Bureau reported tonight.

Arab Reports Indicate Snag Encountered

Intensive Military Operations Continue

CAIRO, June 6—(AP)—The government of Israel said tonight the United Nations mediator probably would decide tomorrow the timetable for a four-week truce in the Palestine war.

Reports from the Arab world, however, indicated negotiations for the cease fire had hit a snag and that efforts to engineer at least a temporry end to the bloody fighting were in danger of failing.

The Israeli government said in a communique, after its foreign minister, Moshe Shertok, talked with the mediator, Count Folke Bernadotte, in Haifa today:

"It was understood that Count Bernadotte is expected to make up his mind finally during the course of tomorrow when he would communicate his conclusions to both sides, propose the deadline and expect the reply."

Nevertheless, a dispatch from Amman, where Bernadotte also conferred with King Abdullah during the day, said the truce agreement appeared to be breaking up. It had been accepted in principle last Wednesday by both the Jews and Arabs.

The Arabs blamed the deadlock on Jewish insistance that immigration into the Holy Land be allowed to continue and that the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway be kept open.

Tel Aviv Threats Blunted

Intensive military operations were in progress while the truce negotiations were being carried on.

Israeli troops forced a half-circle around Arab concentrations on the northeastern approaches of Tel Aviv and drove within three and a half miles of strategic Tulkarm, Jewish leaders said.

Israeli planes hammered Tulkarm itself. The Jewish bulletin said large fires were touched off in an Arab military camp in that city, the western anchor of the Arabs' Tulkarm-Jenin-Nablus triangle.

According to Jewish accounts this was the second major threat to Tel Aviv which Jewish forces have blunted in the last two days. The first one—a drive by Egyptian forces up the Palestine coast—was thrown back at Yibna, 14 miles south of Israel's capital.

King Abdullah's Legionnaires hurled 100 shells today into Jewish-held districts of modern Jerusalem after Israeli infantry made another unsuccessful attempt to storm the old city's Zion Gate.

The Jewish attack was abandoned after three hours of close quarter fighting failed to dislodge the Legionnaires from their machine-gun posts in the thick walls of the old city.

Bernadotte, the United Nations mediator in Palestine, was grim-faced and noncommittal following his talks with Abdullah and Trans-Jordan Foreign Minister Fawzi Pasha Malki in Amman.

Thursday Reported Target Date

Ralph Bunche, of the United Nations Secretariat, indicated the negotiations were not going well when he told newsmen: "We still have hope." A neutral source is Amman said the target-date for getting the truce operative had been moved back until Thursday.

Abdullah said he did not discuss a truce with Bernadotte since the problem must be handled by the Arab League's Political Committee which is expected to meet in Cairo in a few days.

Grenade Injures Three Newsmen In Jerusalem

JERUSALEM, Saturday, June 5 (AP) — Three newspapermen were wounded today when a hand grenade was accidentally exploded as they walked across a square.

Sidney Smith, of the London Daily Express, and James Days, of Britain's Kemsley newspapers were wounded in the legs. Carter L. Davidson, of the Associated Press, was slightly hurt on the left arm.

The trio was walking over an area which has been the scene of bitter fighting for the Holy City when one of them accidentally kicked the grenade.

Arrest Ends Love Flight Of Bride And Salesman

WICHITA, Kas., June 6 (AP)—A 17 - year - old bride and a man charged with kidnapping her in a love flight were arrested here today at the request of Pennsylvania authorities.

The girl, Mrs. Mary Kalinoski, York, Pa., disappeared May 28, a few days before she was to have graduated from high school. Held with her was Arthur Deets, Jr., 23, Kingston, Pa., a salesman who also is married.

A charge of kidnaping against Deets was filed at York by Thomas T. Kalinoski, 25, New Britain, Conn., who said he and the girl were secretly married on April 15.

Detective Frank Parsons, of the Wichita police, said Deets and Mrs. Kalinoski told him they had been in love since they met a year ago. The detective quoted Deets as saying, "I grew lonesome for her and called her."

Parsons said Deets then drove to York, picked up Mrs. Kalinoski and they came to Wichita June 3. The detective said they had been living together at a hotel, where they were registered as man and wife.

Both Deets and the girl have waived extradition, police said.

Mrs. Kalinoski disappeared only a few hours before her husband arrived from Connecticut to attend her graduation from York High School. Kalinoski said the couple intended to announce their marriage at the time of her graduation.

Contacted at York today, Kalinoski said he will continue to press both the abduction and kidnapping charges until he gets more details.

Power Line Short Charges Pool, Killing One Swimmer

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 6 (AP)—A short circuit charged a public swimming pool with electricity today, killing one swimmer and injuring several others.

Dr. Winfield Yarnell, deputy corner, said a short circuit in an underground power line at the Gay-Way swimming pool caused the current to reach a steel ladder in the pool and charged the water in a 15-foot semi-circle around the ladder.

Dr. Yarnell, identified the dead swimmer as Clyde Peters, Harrisburg. He said the 12-year-old boy died of electric burns.

Peters and another swimmer, Rosemary Pritsch, 11, were within the charged area at the time of the short circuit. Dr. Yarnell said both swimmers suddenly stiffened and sank beneath the water.

Other swimmers further away felt the shock, but were able to scramble from the pool. Two youths who watched Peters and the girl sink under the water, leaped in after them, but were instantly paralyzed and had to be helped from the pool.

One of the rescuers, Robert Foltz, told a reporter that when he jumped in the water, "I felt as though I was paralyzed from the waist down. I could hardly move my muscles."

He said he managed to help the Pritsch girl and Peters from the water but that "when I grabbed the ladder to climb out myself, I couldn't move." Other swimmers hauled him to safety.

Peters and the girl were taken to Polyclinic Hospital, where the boy died. The girl was treated and released. She was not hurt seriously.

Red Press Blasts Western Allies

BERLIN, June 6 (AP)—Communist organs launched a fresh propaganda campaign against the Western Allies today, and the Russians charged that five Americans shot a Russian sentry in Berlin.

These developments came on the eve of the disclosure of plans to unify Western Germany, over Russian protests. These plans were drawn up in a London conference by the United States, Britain, France and the Benelux countries. They are due to be published tomorrow.

The Russians said their sentry was wounded at the border of the United States and Russian zones of occupation in Berlin. Col. W. A. Falck, United States Provost Marshal, said he had not heard of the incident, but other American authorities reported a letter of protest has been received.

According to the Russian charge, the sentry was shot while on duty in a wooded area near the residence of Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Soviet military commander. The sentry is permitted by special agreement to patrol his post into American territory to guard the approaches to Sokolovsky's home. It is in an area where Americans frequently hunt for game. The Soviet news bureau said the sentry was attacked by four armed American soldiers and an American civilian.

Benbush Blind Boy Wins Grappling Title

PARSONS, W. Va., June 6.—Edward Jackson Hyson, age 14, who has been a sophomore student at the Romney school for blind has returned to spend the summer with relatives in Benbush.

"Jackie" as he is known locally, captured the 103 pound class wrestling championship of the Eastern United States in 1947 in a contest held at the John Hopkins University, Baltimore, when he defeated C. Abbott of Kentucky, and D. Anderson of Maryland, to clinch the title. In February 21, 1948, at Staunton, Virginia he defeated Lilley of Virginia and White of Perkins, Mass., to retain the 103 pound title.

He also played inter-class football at his school, playing the center position. The youth who is totally blind, is very active, and has made plans to operate a shoe shine stand in Thomas during the summer months.

Sales Tax Violators Receive Jail Sentence

Thirty-day jail sentences as well as fines in the amount of tax deficiencies were levied against two violators of the State Retail Sales Tax law, the first such cases to be heard before the Baltimore Criminal Court.

The defendants, a man and a woman, both restaurant proprietors, were sentenced to 30 days each in the Baltimore City Jail.

Judge Herman M. Moser, in rendering his descision, said that the court was in accord with the Federal idea of imprisonment for tax violators. He added, "Failure to collect the sales tax and make payment to the State constitutes a serious offense. Persons who fail to pay their Federal income taxes are sometimes sentenced to prison, and the same principle applies in cases involving State taxes. As far as this court is concerned it is a policy. If they come in this Court for willfully failing to pay a tax, they are not only going to be fined commensurate with the penalties involved but the individual is going to go to jail. There is nothing more sacred about payment of Federal taxes than there is about State taxes. Both of them are in the same position morally and legally."

real relaxation for "Charlie" who has probably put in a hard day in the garden or tinkering around his woodshed near the house.

As for transportation, the couple had one car, a Model T, which was purchased in 1917. Everything went well until time for the taking of his driver's license test. Two small children ran out in "Charlie's" road and he slammed on the brakes and "killed his motor." This flunked him, he said. But he asked the policeman "which he would rather he'd done, kill the motor or those poor children."

Possibly one could go on indefinitely telling of the happenings of the couple, but it was drawing night and it was time for the Bible reading session, which is looked forward to each night by the light of a kerosene lamp.

Cost Of Fighting Soars

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—The high cost of fighting has climbed to dizzier heights than the high cost of living.

The present budget lists fighters at $456,500. That's just for one.

with Jewish leaders in Haifa this morning after journeying from Beirut, the Lebanese capital. He came to Amman from Haifa.

Both the Jews and Arabs attached "explanations" to their acceptance of the truce proposed by the United Nations Security Council. The Jews said they assumed that, during the truce, immigration of all except military personnel would be permitted in the Holy Land. The Jews also insist on the opening of the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway, the supply route for 80,000 to 90,000 Jews besieged in modern sections of Jerusalem.

One high Arab authority in Trans-Jordan said Jewish stubbornness had raised obstacles which might "kill any truce."

Abdullah himself said that after the Arabs accepted the truce agreement in principal "some obstacles were encountered which made it impractical."

WOMAN SAYS HUSBAND, CONVICTED SLAYER, "TOOK RAP" FOR HER

LOS ANGELES, June 6 (INS) — Mrs. Colleen Berry, 20, walked into a police station today and told police she shot and killed her brother-in-law, Murrill Berry, 27—a crime for which her husband, Harold, 20, is serving a life sentence in San Quentin Prison.

Murrill Berry was slain under mysterious circumstances as he slept in his trailer home at Van Nuys December 5.

His brother and sister-in-law were questioned. Mrs. Berry underwent a "lie detector" test which was inconclusive. Harold Berry refused to take the test.

Mrs. Berry said that her brother-in-law had made improper advances to her, and that the trio had quarreled during a drinking bout in Murrill Berry's trailer preceding the killings, according to Detective W. M. Huson.

"Later, Harold said he'd take the rap so I could stay home and take care of our baby," Mrs. Berry said.

Crash Of Flying Wing Is Probed

MUROC AIR BASE, Calif., June 6 (AP)—One of the United States Air Force's five new flying wings—the huge bat-like bombers that are powered by eight jet engines—was nothing but scattered and burnt debris today on the desert near here.

The great Northrop YB-49, described by its makers as the fastest and most powerful bomber in the world, crashed yesterday, carrying its crew of five to death.

Air Force officers said there had been no radio message that the plane was in trouble before the crash occurred.

Col. J. C. Moore, acting post commandant at this testing field, said the bomber was on a route test flight from here to Mojave, Calif. He said the plane had been in the air about an hour.

Dale C. Wilson, Alton, Ill., who was driving on a nearby highway, told sheriff's officers the plane seemed to explode and then plunged downward, cutting a wide swath through the sagebrush and greasewood

Air Force spokesmen said the plane had "run into difficulties" but that it would be several days before anything more could be told.

Red Press Blasts Western Allies

BERLIN, June 6 (AP)—Communist organs launched a fresh propaganda campaign against the Western Allies today, and the Russians charged that five Americans shot a Russian sentry in Berlin.

These developments came on the eve of the disclosure of plans to unify Western Germany, over Russian protests. These plans were drawn up in a London conference by the United States, Britain, France and the Benelux countries. They are due to be published tomorrow.

The Russians said their sentry was wounded at the border of the United States and Russian zones of occupation in Berlin. Col. W. A. Falck, United States Provost Marshal, said he had not heard of the incident, but other American authorities reported a letter of protest has been received.

According to the Russian charge, the sentry was shot while on duty in a wooded area near the residence of Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Soviet military commander. The sentry is permitted by special agreement to patrol his post into American territory to guard the approaches to Sokolovsky's home. It is in an area where Americans frequently hunt for game. The Soviet news bureau said the sentry was attacked by four armed American soldiers and an American civilian.

Sales Tax Violators Receive Jail Sentence

Thirty-day jail sentences as well as fines in the amount of tax deficiencies were levied against two violators of the State Retail Sales Tax law, the first such cases to be heard before the Baltimore Criminal Court.

The defendants, a man and a woman, both restaurant proprietors, were sentenced to 30 days each in the Baltimore City Jail.

Judge Herman M. Moser, in rendering his descision, said that the court was in accord with the Federal idea of imprisonment for tax violators. He added, "Failure to collect the sales tax and make payment to the State constitutes a serious offense. Persons who fail to pay their Federal income taxes are sometimes sentenced to prison, and the same principle applies in cases involving State taxes. As far as this court is concerned it is a policy. If they come in this Court for willfully failing to pay a tax, they are not only going to be fined commensurate with the penalties involved but the individual is going to go to jail. There is nothing more sacred about payment of Federal taxes than there is about State taxes. Both of them are in the same position morally and legally."

real relaxation for "Charlie" who has probably put in a hard day in the garden or tinkering around his woodshed near the house.

As for transportation, the couple had one car, a Model T, which was purchased in 1917. Everything went well until time for the taking of his driver's license test. Two small children ran out in "Charlie's" road and he slammed on the brakes and "killed his motor." This flunked him, he said. But he asked the policeman "which he would rather he'd done, kill the motor or those poor children."

Possibly one could go on indefinitely telling of the happenings of the couple, but it was drawing night and it was time for the Bible reading session, which is looked forward to each night by the light of a kerosene lamp.

Cost Of Fighting Soars

WASHINGTON, June 6. (AP)—The high cost of fighting has climbed to dizzier heights than the high cost of living.

The present budget lists fighters at $456,500. That's just for one.

with Jewish leaders in Haifa this morning after journeying from Beirut, the Lebanese capital. He came to Amman from Haifa.

Both the Jews and Arabs attached "explanations" to their acceptance of the truce proposed by the United Nations Security Council. The Jews said they assumed that, during the truce, immigration of all except military personnel would be permitted in the Holy Land. The Jews also insist on the opening of the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway, the supply route for 80,000 to 90,000 Jews besieged in modern sections of Jerusalem.

One high Arab authority in Trans-Jordan said Jewish stubbornness had raised obstacles which might "kill any truce."

Abdullah himself said that after the Arabs accepted the truce agreement in principal "some obstacles were encountered which made it impractical."

WOMAN SAYS HUSBAND, CONVICTED SLAYER, "TOOK RAP" FOR HER

LOS ANGELES, June 6 (INS) — Mrs. Colleen Berry, 20, walked into a police station today and told police she shot and killed her brother-in-law, Murrill Berry, 27—a crime for which her husband, Harold, 20, is serving a life sentence in San Quentin Prison.

Murrill Berry was slain under mysterious circumstances as he slept in his trailer home at Van Nuys December 5.

His brother and sister-in-law were questioned. Mrs. Berry underwent a "lie detector" test which was inconclusive. Harold Berry refused to take the test.

Mrs. Berry said that her brother-in-law had made improper advances to her, and that the trio had quarreled during a drinking bout in Murrill Berry's trailer preceding the killings, according to Detective W. M. Huson.

"Later, Harold said he'd take the rap so I could stay home and take care of our baby," Mrs. Berry said.

Crash Of Flying Wing Is Probed

MUROC AIR BASE, Calif., June 6 (AP)—One of the United States Air Force's five new flying wings—the huge bat-like bombers that are powered by eight jet engines—was nothing but scattered and burnt debris today on the desert near here.

The great Northrop YB-49, described by its makers as the fastest and most powerful bomber in the world, crashed yesterday, carrying its crew of five to death.

Air Force officers said there had been no radio message that the plane was in trouble before the crash occurred.

Col J. C. Moore, acting post commandant at this testing field, said the bomber was on a route test flight from here to Mojave, Calif. He said the plane had been in the air about an hour.

Dale C. Wilson, Alton, Ill., who was driving on a nearby highway, told sheriff's officers the plane seemed to explode and then plunged downward, cutting a wide swath through the sagebrush and greasewood

Air Force spokesmen said the plane had "run into difficulties" but that it would be several days before anything more could be told.

Tri-Towns Plan For Emergency Of Flood Stage

Outline New System In Case Of Flooding

KEYSER — A plan which offers steps to be taken in the Tri-Towns area in the event of high waters to the extent of flood stage was outlined at a recent meeting of the Westernport-Luke Lions Club Civic Improvement Committee.

Representatives of nearby towns met Friday afternoon in the office of Julian Patrick, chief engineer of the water purification and surface water survey of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, Luke, Md.

Patrick agreed to co-operate fully with Westernport, Luke, Keyser and other points in this area, in giving reliable information to designated persons who could in turn transmit the message to those areas in the lowlands which would be affected by flood water when such exists.

It was also agreed by those attending that police officers on duty at the time the alarm is sounded and volunteer firemen who would be designated in each town affected would be responsible for getting the flood warnings to each individual resident in the threatened area.

It was pointed out that in the past when flood warnings were given that no system was followed and that such warnings had worked an undue hardship, as well as created much disturbance, on the part of many people.

Attending the meeting, the first since the organization of the Civic Committee, were Mayor John C. Freeland, Keyser; Herbert Poland and Robert Maybury of the Westernport Civic Committee; Eugene Paxton, Piedmont city councilman; and Patrick, who was in charge of the meeting.

Pumphrey Talks To College Grads

FROSTBURG—LeRoy Pumphrey, majority floor leader in the House of Delegates of the Maryland General Assembly, delivered the address to the graduates of Frostburg State Teachers College Saturday morning, the topic of his remarks being "Faith."

He pointed out how young people are unjustly criticised in the things they do and the way they act. In this connection, he said it is well to remember that the world today is not the easy going way of our grandparents' day but a pulsating, throbbing world, ever changing and full of challenges. This is the kind of world, he said, that the graduates of today are entering.

He added, "At one time men thought themselves self sufficient and even thought of removing faith, which would be like removing the main spring of life. You must have faith in an eternal goodness because under all this lies some great hope, some great plan, in which you are a part and from that source is the strength for the faith we must maintain."

President Lillian C. Compton announced that this year improvements on the college plant have totaled $105,000, including a new science building, converting the old science department into offices and an addition to the dining hall.

Music for the exercise was furnished by The Maryland Singers. Tasker G. Lowdnes awarded the diplomas.

An informal luncheon was served in the college dining hall after the ceremonies.

It finishes into a very light blond veneer without going through the process of bleaching. It will be used by furniture makers for interior paneling trim and in cabinet work. Plywood Corporation has already contracted for a large quantity of the new blond wood.

The increase had been authorized by the West Virginia Public Service Commission for the past year and a half, but the council had not made the authorized increase effective.

The first thousand gallons will cost $1.70 instead of the present minimum of $1.25. Water users outside the corporate limits will have a minimum of $2.20 for the first thousand gallons.

The second block in the rates provides for a charge of 30c per thousand gallons for the next four thousand gallons and 25c per thousand gallons for all over five thousand.

Multi-unit houses and apartments will be charged minimums of $1.70 for each tennant but the bulk rates will apply for both. Two families or three living in the same house will be required to pay two or three minimum rates before the bulk rates take effect. These families will have the option of installing a separate meter if desired.

Central School Seniors Attend Annual Sermon

Rev. J. E. Stacks Addresses Graduates

LONACONING.—"My urge to you is that you be yourself," Rev. John E. Stacks, pastor of First Methodist Church, told members of the Central High School graduating class yesterday afternoon at the annual religious service held in the school auditorium.

"Never mind if someone else is wiser, greater or more useful," Rev. Stack continued, "that is not your affair. Be yourself, at your best, especially if you are not a ten-talented person, having perhaps but one talent, dare to get out of yourself the best that one talent can produce."

The order of service started with the processional with the high school orchestra playing "Pomp and Chivalry March." A double octet with William Neff, soloist, sang "Sanctus" from St. Cecelia Mass. The octet followed with "Were You There?"

In concluding his sermon to the graduates, Rev. Stacks said, "If we are to believe that we must identify ourself creatively with our best self until it becomes our real self, then we must be willing to listen to a friendly voice, and that friendly voice must say to us as it said to Simon,—Simon, Simon, thou art Peter. Tomorrow you face a difficult world. Tomorrow you will be impinged upon by a society that constantly appeals to the worst in you. Do not forget that difficult days do two things to a person—in some it brings out the worst—in others it brings out the best. Tomorrow that test is going to fall on some of you, therefore today, let our prayer be, O God, give us a listening ear: Simon, thou art Peter."

Tri-Towns Plan For Emergency Of Flood Stage

Outline New System In Case Of Flooding

KEYSER — A plan which offers steps to be taken in the Tri-Towns area in the event of high waters to the extent of flood stage was outlined at a recent meeting of the Westernport-Luke Lions Club Civic Improvement Committee.

Representatives of nearby towns met Friday afternoon in the office of Julian Patrick, chief engineer of the water purification and surface water survey of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, Luke, Md.

Patrick agreed to co-operate fully with Westernport, Luke, Keyser and other points in this area, in giving reliable information to designated persons who could in turn transmit the message to those areas in the lowlands which would be affected by flood water when such exists.

It was also agreed by those attending that police officers on duty at the time the alarm is sounded and volunteer firemen who would be designated in each town affected would be responsible for getting the flood warnings to each individual resident in the threatened area.

It was pointed out that in the past when flood warnings were given that no system was followed and that such warnings had worked an undue hardship, as well as created much disturbance, on the part of many people.

Attending the meeting, the first since the organization of the Civic Committee, were Mayor John C. Freeland, Keyser; Herbert Poland and Robert Maybury of the Westernport Civic Committee; Eugene Paxton, Piedmont city councilman; and Patrick, who was in charge of the meeting.

Pumphrey Talks To College Grads

FROSTBURG—LeRoy Pumphrey, majority floor leader in the House of Delegates of the Maryland General Assembly, delivered the address to the graduates of Frostburg State Teachers College Saturday morning, the topic of his remarks being "Faith."

He pointed out how young people are unjustly criticised in the things they do and the way they act. In this connection, he said it is well to remember that the world today is not the easy going way of our grandparents' day but a pulsating, throbbing world, ever changing and full of challenges. This is the kind of world, he said, that the graduates of today are entering.

He added, "At one time men thought themselves self sufficient and even thought of removing faith, which would be like removing the main spring of life. You must have faith in an eternal goodness because under all this lies some great hope, some great plan, in which you are a part and from that source is the strength for the faith we must maintain."

President Lillian C. Compton announced that this year improvements on the college plant have totaled $105,000, including a new science building, converting the old science department into offices and an addition to the dining hall.

Music for the exercise was furnished by The Maryland Singers. Tasker G. Lowdnes awarded the diplomas.

An informal luncheon was served in the college dining hall after the ceremonies.

WESTERNPORT — A reception was held in honor of Mrs. Gertrude Ferrell, Westernport, Grand Ada of the Eastern Star of Maryland, at a recent meeting of Bethlehem Chapter No. 14, Order of the Eastern Star, at Odd Fellows Hall.

Mrs. Ferrell was appointed to that office at a meeting of the Grand Chapter held in Baltimore in April by Lillian Rodenhi, grand worthy matron.

A ceremony was presented for the guest of honor with the following participating: Mrs. Hannah Umstot, chaplain of the chapter; Mrs. Margaret Wolfe, Mrs. Elizabeth Schoppert, Mrs. Arbutus Seasber, Mrs. Clara Marteney and Mrs. Rosaleen Stultz.

A gift in behalf of the chapter was presented to Mrs. Ferrell by Mrs. Evelyn Malcolm and Mrs. Umstot gave her a personal gift. Mrs. Ferrell responded. Refreshments were served.

Central School Seniors Attend Annual Sermon

Rev. J. E. Stacks Addresses Graduates

LONACONING.—"My urge to you is that you be yourself," Rev. John E. Stacks, pastor of First Methodist Church, told members of the Central High School graduating class yesterday afternoon at the annual religious service held in the school auditorium.

"Never mind if someone else is wiser, greater or more useful," Rev. Stack continued, "that is not your affair. Be yourself, at your best, especially if you are not a ten-talented person, having perhaps but one talent, dare to get out of yourself the best that one talent can produce."

The order of service started with the processional with the high school orchestra playing "Pomp and Chivalry March." A double octet with William Neff, soloist, sang "Sanctus" from St. Cecelia Mass. The octet followed with "Were You There?"

In concluding his sermon to the graduates, Rev. Stacks said, "If we are to believe that we must identify ourself creatively with our best self until it becomes our real self, then we must be willing to listen to a friendly voice, and that friendly voice must say to us as it said to Simon,—Simon, Simon, thou art Peter. Tomorrow you face a difficult world. Tomorrow you will be impinged upon by a society that constantly appeals to the worst in you. Do not forget that difficult days do two things to a person—in some it brings out the worst—in others it brings out the best. Tomorrow that test is going to fall on some of you, therefore today, let our prayer be, O God, give us a listening ear: Simon, thou art Peter."

Central Seniors Plan Class Night

LONACONING — The class of 1948 of Central High School will present "Seniors on Board a Pirate Ship, The S. S. Centralia," a play written by Lewyn C. Davis, as the main attraction of the Class Night program tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

The class of 24 boys and 30 girls will be the ship's crew. Lowell Sowers, class president, will be captain; Joe Love will be first mate; Roy Llewellyn will portray "Snowball," a colored fellow.

"Ah!," a one act drama, will be a comedy highlight. Althea Beeman will take the part of "Mabel." George Kelly will be "Handsome Dan," and Paul Green will be "Phil," the villain; Adel Broadwater will be a "Sea Hag," and Angelline McKenzie will be the "Sea Hag's" assistant.

Cremation exercises will feature the act, as the time when Seniors take the opportunity to rid themselves of any or all the distasteful parts of their school life.

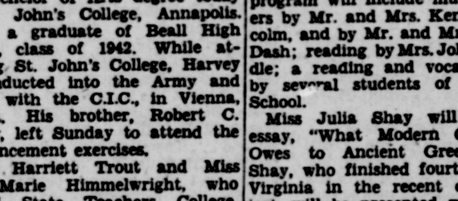

James Alexander and Kathleen Cunningham will sing special vocal numbers. Singing of "Auld Lang Syne" will conclude the program.

Everybody Should Get Into Security Bond Buying

On the back of your weekly pay envelope there is printed a little table showing your salary or wages and three deductions therefrom: Amount Earned. Less Federal Old Age Tax. Less Federal Income Tax. Less War Bonds.

Your take-home pay, of course, is your salary or wages with the sum of the three items deducted. The fourth is up to you altogether. That's the one we want to talk about. The space opposite it could remain blank, but should it?

The government is embarked on a great bond-selling movement. which is primarily a campaign against inflation. Carried to the limit, inflation could wreck about everything. Lynn C. Lashley, chairman of the Allegany County Savings Bond Committee, has already received a letter of commendation from Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder for the fine response which has been made in the campaign here. To be sure the Allegany county goal of $1,700,000 has not yet been reached, but during the first few weeks of the drive sales totalled $265,681, and it can be certain that it has been substantially increased since the last report issued by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond.

At this time when we are in the midst of an inflationary period with many vast programs, perhaps beyond the capacity of the nation, this bond drive will be very helpful in persuading people not to spend all the money which they may earn. It is the tremendous spending of individuals added to that of the government and business which has forced prices up, which may create a dangerous condition if the price rise is resumed.

Here is the opportunity for a mass movement that would get the results which everybody desires. Your direct interest in it is greater than that of the government, which could always—to use a familiar phrase—"spend and spend and spend, and tax and tax and tax." If you spend only what you need to spend, and be sure it is needed, and buy bonds with the rest, and if your neighbors do the same, prices will have to fall all over the land.

Furthermore, you would have means at hand to take care of illness or other family misfortunes, and take advantage later of some vital opportunity. The sales made in the Allegany County campaign will, as Secretary Snyder has pointed out "open new family horizons, add stability to future markets of industry, and build that internal citizenship strength that stems from widespread ownership of America's prime securities."

Revolt of Southern Democrats has brought up many questions which have been the subject of political dissension through the years, and on which there has never been agreement. Such as whether you bruise or crush the mint.

And Still The Surplus In The U. S. Treasury Grows

When the recent income tax reduction bill was passed by Congress there were all sorts of dire predictions by the Administration as to what the cut would do to the nation's economy. The President, in his veto message, said this was no time to cut taxes. He harped on the fact that the reduction would cut into the much-needed surplus.

Yet today Government experts look for a $7,200,000,000 surplus with a possibility that the January prediction of a $7,500,000,000 surplus based on the former tax rate may be reached. In other words, there will still be just as big a surplus, and the people have enjoyed a reduction in taxes.

Of course the reason is that revenues exceeded estimates and the Government has cut spending. Also, the full force of the European Recovery Program spending has not yet been felt. That will come next year to affect Treasury balances and a closer watch on economies will be necessary if another surplus is to be achieved But what is happening now proves that Congress knew what it was doing when it insisted, over the President's veto on giving the American taxpayer a break.

It seems incredible that three weeks from now the GOP convention will be over and the pre-convention predictions of all but one of the hopeful will be buried in the hot air file.

Obsequies Have Been Held For Czechoslovakia

The democracy of Czechoslovakia died on February 25 last, after the Communist coup. It was formally buried a week ago in a Communist-run election which in all essentials followed the totalitarianism model of Russia But the 30-year-old democracy was not interred until its destroyers had received a clear warning at the polls that the Czechs will have an underground opposition.

The Communists, under Premier-Dictator Gottwald, desperately wanted a 90 per cent majority — the minimum standard set by Moscow practice. The election was carefully rigged to that end. There was only one ticket, the National Front, under Communist control. Opposition could be expressed only by casting a blank ballot, in full view of election officials allied to the police. Most of the voting places were cluttered with portraits of Gottwald and Stalin, with signs advising the voters that it would be "treason" to vote against the official party.

In spite of all this the Red riggers failed to get their 90 per cent. Of the 8,000,000 voters registered, 6,400,000 were announced as casting official ballots, about 80 per cent. More than 700,000 blank ballots were boldly cast before the officials. The rest were declared invalid for one reason or another. In some districts the blanks ran to 40 per cent of the total. Prague, where the government made a frantic bid for unanimity, produced a 25 per cent negative vote.

This impressive demonstration of the underlying democratic spirit of the Czechs is important for the long future—for all countries behind the Iron Curtain. But in the immediate future it will mean more rigidly rigged elections. Czechoslovakia, the country on which so many democratic hopes were focussed after World War I, is now condemned for an indefinite number of years to totalitarian dictatorship.

To make them sound more attractive, why not price GI houses at $7,000, but with windows, doors, floors and roofs extra?

KEEP WELL HOW TO

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Mailbag

Numerous letters come to the desk of the feature editor. Some are cordial, others unfriendly; the majority ask for information but a certain percentage offer suggestions. Many readers have "cures" for this or that and want to share their discoveries through the medium of a newspaper. A few letters are purely complimntary; others object to particular statements and wish to voice their disagreement. The average reader enjoys a dash of humor but now and then one will write that a health column is no place for witticisms.

Dr. Van Dellen

The mailbag of the past two weeks, for example, brought comments from physicians and others on an article describing the Johns Hopkins Big Four—Welch, Halsted, Kelly, and Osler. These men were well known in their day, and some of the letters came from individuals who knew them years ago. In the article in question, I stated that Dr. Halsted had married Miss Hampton, the nurse for whom he had devised rubber gloves. Several readers though I was in error but it develops that there were two nurses named Hampton at the hospital at that time. Miss Caroline, who was the operating room nurse, became Mrs. Halsted; Miss Isabel, the superintendent of nurses, married Dr. Hunter Robb.

A few days later, I discussed the situation created by the shortage of nurses. As a result, several young ladies inquired where they could register for training. Various hospitals wrote approvingly but many more nurses voiced their grievances of hard work, inadequate salaries, split shifts, etc. Some objected to the suggestion that practical nurses might prove the answer to the problem.

Then came an article on the accident picture. The National Safety council and other similar groups asked permission to reproduce this material in their journals to help in public education campaigns. A discussion of rabies brought the usual number of complaints from "anti" groups. Meanwhile several cases of this horrible disease developed in a middle western state and one child died as a result of the infection.

In an article on combating arthritis, an offer was made to send out leaflets on heat, massage, etc. in treatment. The staff was snowed under with requests and all hands fell to in order to mail out the material. In these strikebound days, a certain number of errors are bound to appear and the majority of readers bear with us.

And so it goes. Each article is of interest to some particular person; and the public in general is always looking for means of improving their own health and that of the family. As a rule, the response to any column always keeps its editor on his toes. He knows he cannot rest on his laurels but must produce—otherwise the work has little value.

DISTORTED TOE

R. K. writes: I have developed hammer-toe on the right foot. Ie operation necessary? Must the toes be removed?

Reply

Mild cases can be helped by manipulation and proper footgear. If the condition is severe operation is required. The deformity can be corrected without removing the toe.

BLOOD CELL DESTRUCTION

H. T. writes: What is plastic anemia?

Reply

In aplastic (no relation to plastics) anemia, the red cells are destroyed faster than they can be manufactured in the body. When the cause is due to chemicals of drugs, recovery follows the elimination of the offending substance.

STOP THE HABIT

Mrs. F. K. writes: My doctor ells me that I am old fashioned because I allow my 22 month old baby to have a bottle when he takes his nap and at night. Is he correct? He says it spoils the shape of the inside of the mouth and is a bad habit.

Reply

Absolutely. In addition it might affect the alignment of the teeth.

EDEMA

A. Q. writes: Can the heart develop dropsy?

Reply

No, but when certain chambers in the heart fail to function, the return flow of blood to the organ is affected. As a result, fluid accumulates in the lungs, liver and lower extremities.

HIGH CALCIUM LEVEL

Mrs. M. writes: What causes too much calcium in the system?

Reply

The most common are excessive doses o vitamin D and disturbances of the parathyroid gland.

STEER CLEAR

Mrs. L. writes: Will you tell me how to cope with a violently emotional, screaming person.

Reply

Leave her alone. Later, a psychiatrist should be consulted and, by treating the cause, future attacks can be minimized.

FATLESS FEET

Mrs. E. M. writes: When I walk on pavements my soles bother me dreadfully. I was told it was because my feet are bony. Is there anything I can do?

Reply

Padding your shoes will probably help.

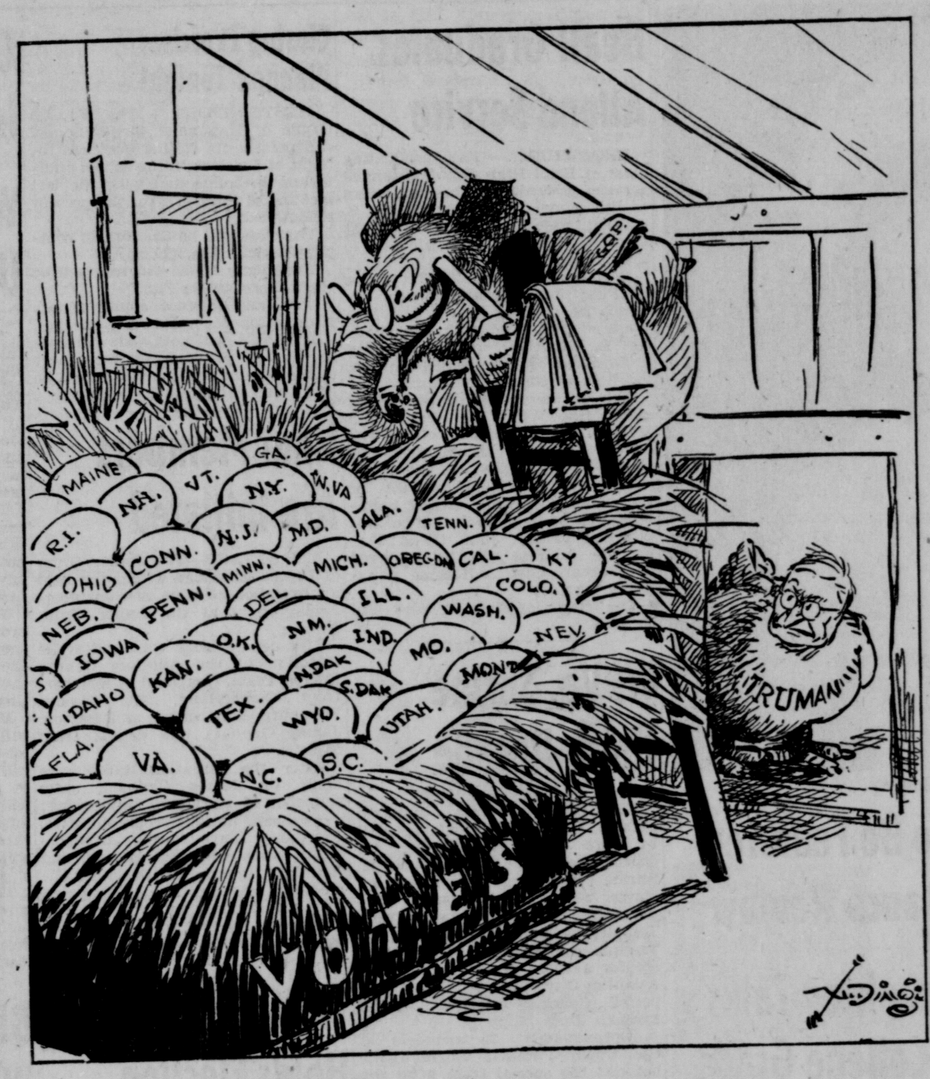

CHOREA

Mrs. R. writes: Can a child with St. Vitus' dance ever become normal?

Reply

Yes, the majority of cases subside in time.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, June 6—It hasn't been publicized, but the census takers have unearthed the shocking fact that ten million American adults cannot read or write.

Yet Congress, willing to spend billions to train young men for war, has bottled up the $300,000,000 aid-to-education bill to train young men and women for peace.

Georgia's Democratic Congressman Don Wheeler has been begging for 218 of his House mates to sign a discharge petition to force the federal-aid-to-education bill out of the Education and Labor Committee where it has been salted away by the GOP leadership. But he has not been able to scrape up more than 43 names!

Chief obstacles are Speaker Joe Martin and majority leader Charlie Halleck, who have ordered the Committee not to let the bill out. Also, they have passed word to Republicans not to sign any discharge petition. So far only one Republican has defied these orders—North Dakota's Bill Lemke, who joined with 42 Democrats already on the petition.

However, minority leader Sam Rayburn also has quietly blocked the petition and has succeeded in keeping Texas and Virginia Democrats from signing.

Less Literate Than Russia

Meanwhile, literacy in the United States has sunk to an alarming low—probably lower than Russia. What the public also doesn't realize is that the nation's ten million illiterates over 24 years old are not Southern Negroes, but many of them native-born whites. Official statistics show that 4,200,000 adults, who cannot read or write, are whites born in this country. Another 3,100,000 are foreign-born whites, whereas only 2,700,000 are Negroes. The remaining handful are Latin Americans and Orientals by birth.

Furthermore, illiteracy isn't found exclusively in the South. For example, more than one million illiterate adults live in New York, another 696,000 in Pennsylvania and 462,000 in Illinois. However, 36 per cent of Louisiana's total population cannot read or write.

During the war, the draft boards weeded out 350,000 young men who could only sign their name with an X. Of these, 150,000 were physically fit to serve in the Army but were disqualified because of lack of education—a loss to the country of approximately 15 divisions.

Yet House leaders are not willing to spend a few million dollars on a bill already passed by the Senate and which would again make America the most enlightened nation in the world.

State Department's Feeble Voice

Not in years has Congress been caught with a better case of being wrong than in the current squabble over the Voice of America. Yet the diplomats haven't been able to make the public realize that Congress, not the diplomats, are to blame.

Last year Republican economizers cut the Voice of America's appropriation to ribbons, told the State Department to broadcast through private radio channels. The State Department obeyed. It farmed out Latin American radio programs to the National Broadcasting Company, which then proceeded to concoct a series of slipshod programs that insulted Senators.

Now the Senators are mad because the State Department carried out their orders. They are also mad because the State Department didn't have enough money to hire men to monitor the daily deluge of words which NBC and other private radio networks sent abroad.

But the State Department is so meek, mild and inarticulate that it hasn't told the Congressmen in decisive, reverberating language that it was all their own fault.

Note—The more you see of the State Department's propaganda operation, the better Elmer Davis's job looks. Davis was wartime head of the Office of Information, got kicked around by Congress, did an effective job just the same.

People Use Their Own Voice

Interesting fact about NBC's Voice of America broadcasts is that if NBC operated for General Foods or General Motors with the same carelessness that they worked for their Government, they would be out of business. Looks like dividends come ahead of patriotism.

In contrast, thousands of individual Americans have been helping put across effective propaganda to Europe, with no financial help, no guidance from the State Department and not even any thanks. Here are some of them:

The United Nations Council of Philadelphia is flooding Europe with letters and getting a lot of fine reaction in return . . . Clair McCollough of Station WGAL, Lancaster, Pa., Paul Bartless of KFRE, Fresno, Calif., and B. T. Whitmore of WFBC, Greenville, S. C., are arranging family programs from typical American neighborhoods—telling Europe about life in the USA. World Wide Broadcasting Foundation is transmitting them shortwave to Europe . . . The Richmond, Va., Professional Institute got up a special edition of its college paper in French to be exchanged with French schools and universities . . . Mrs. Isabella Greenway King, former Congresswoman from Arizona, has helped organize "Operation Democracy" which not only has sent relief to Europe, but follows it up with friendship letters . . . Generoso Pope, the New York Italian-American publisher, has helped conduct a shortwave trans-Atlantic radio contest in Italy on "How to Win the Peace and Make Democracy Live." All sorts of people—Allis-Chalmers, Ingersoll Watches, Harman, Bulova, Helbros Watches, Endicott-Johnson Shoes, Clippercraft Suits, Wing Shirts, Emerson Radios, Lee Hats, Kruger Jewelry Co., of Austin, Tex., Martin Gruenborn in Seattle, Muskogee, Okla., Broadcasting Co.—all have contributed prizes to the Italian Democracy contest. They had no thought of business gair because their products aren't sold in Italy . . . This is just a small cross section of what thousands of Americans, with no expectation of reward other than helping their country, have been doing to wage the difficult battle of peace.

Senate Chaplain's Congregation

Kindly, 82-year-old Martha Scott shocked the ladies of Senate Chaplain Peter Marshall's Presbyterian church the other day when she showed up at their weekly tea with a Negro nurse. They were even more shocked when Miss Scott announced her intention of coming the following week with her colored nurse.

The ladies called a frantic conference, agreed that the nurse would have to be barred. A delegation got on the phone to notify Miss Scott.

"I'm sorry," replied someone at the other end, probably the nurse in question, "but Miss Scott passed away an hour ago."

Government Agency Puts Out Warning On Farm Land Prices

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. June 6—The Agriculture Department in Washinbton is putting out warnings as o high prices of farm land. Their agents are advising against the purchase of more property at present prices. Readers are also disturbed by the chart which appeared on page 79 of Time Magazine for May 3 of this year.

The facts are that these big increases in land values are not the same in different sections of the country. Probably the farm values fairly near large cities are abnormally high. They are selling not on their value as producing farms, but rather on their speculative value for sub-divisions, etc. This also applies to pasture land near small cities. There seems to be an abnorman demand for bottom land which in many cases is selling for above a sensible price.

The special concern of the Agriculture Department, however, is in connection with land being bought on mortgage. They are very much oposed, at the present time, for farmers to buy land for which they cannot pay cash, believing that sooner or later a crash is coming, due to an inevitable decline in farm prices. Oo course, the ultimate value of a farm is whether or not it can raise crops which will pay a fair rate of interest on the land after all expenses, and this of course depends upon the price received, as well as the wages and other expenses which must be paid.

City and Town Property

The Federal Reserve Bank in Washington is especially disturbed at the continued climb in mortgage loans on city and town property. This is probably due in part to the activity of the Federal Loan and Savings Banks in soliciting mortgages. Certainly this should be curbed at the present time. It is worng for mortgage loans on real estate to be climbing during a period in which business loans are dropping off steadily and are being reduced.

These Federal Loan and Savings Banks must be careful not to be part of a vicious circle whereby someday the property, upon which they are now loaning and which loans are in part guaranteed by the Government, will come back into the Government's hands. If the Government then adopts a policy of selling these houses at auction, the houses for which the veteran now pays $10,000 will be selling in the open market for $5,00 or even less It is entirely possible that what happened to city and small town real estate in the 30's, could easily repeat in the 50's.

Reasons For Being Cautious

There are four definite reasons which people should carefully consider before bidding up prices for any kind of real estate. These reasons are as follows:

(1) The upward trend in mortgage indebtedness, which in some localities is reaching a dangerous point.

(2) Threats of surplus farm products and even certain manufactured goods due to the present high level of production.

(3) The recent downward trend in the buying power both of farmers due to lower prices of farm products and of the industrial population due to the increased cost of living.

(4) The fact that a large proportion of the money now being sent to Europe will be used to aid Europe to produce more farm products and manufacture goods in order to be independent of us.

How To Invest

Use your earnings first to pay up your mortgages and other debts. Then put your buildings and machinery into good shape so you can go through the next depression without any maintenance costs. After this, give your wife a break by buying her a modern kitchen and bathroom. She was patient and thrifty for you during the hard times; she now is getting older and cannot do so much. Be liberal with your church and give your children a useful education in agriculture ,mechanics or business. Above all, have a good savings bank account or a safe deposit box of U. S. Government "E" bonds. DON'T KEEP THESE IN YOUR HOUSE.

MATTER OF FACT

By STEWART ALSOP

Philadelphia Story

WASHINGTON.

It is early yet for the boldest to begin forecasting the pattern of events that will unroll amid the bustle, squalor and confusion of the Republican Convention at Philadelphia. This, therefore, is emphatically not a forecast. It is, rather, a report on what two or three of the most highly placed Republican professionals are inclined to think may happen, after peering into the chipped old crystal balls, thumbing through their almanacs, watching the flight of birds, and using other expedients to pierce the dark mystery of the future.

On the first ballot, these wiseacres think that Governor Thomas E. Dewey will show 300 plus, Senator Robert A. Taft 200 plus and Governor Harold E. Stassen 150 plus, while Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg will get the 43 Michigan votes and a handful from enthusiasts elsewhere. This is a balance of strength presaging a deadlock, in a convention which requires 548 votes to nominate.

The second ballot will bring out the aces in the hole, which the stronger candidates, Dewey and Taft, will have carefully concealed with a view to impressing everyone with their irresistible strength. (A candidate who did not hide his aces in the hole would be regarded as a man who did not play our curious political game according to its curious rules.) When the aces have been triumphantly slapped upon the table, Dewey is expected to rise to about 370 plus, while Taft goes to 250 or above. After his recent misfortunes, Stassen's aces are not considered to be numerous, despite the game fight he is making.

The Taft strength is thought likely to come near its peak on the second ballot. (Taft-backers among the Republicans are already developing an ominous tendency to speak lovingly of Speaker Joseph W. Martin and longingly of Senator John Bricker. Either of these, being far more biddable, would suit the Republican conservatives better than Taft in any case.)

On the third ballot, local patriotism would weaken; the desertion of the favorite sons will begin. Dewey is credited with enough attraction for this group of delegates to bring him at least to 450 and perhaps as high as 470 votes—somewhere between 80 and a hundred short of nomination. Meanwhile, the swing to Vandenberg should also begin on the third ballot. It is even possible that Stassen, who will most wish to stop if he cannot be nominated himself, will quickly accept elimination and take his place in the Vandenberg camp.

The beginning of the swing to Vandenberg will provide the test for Dewey. Dewey will then somehow have to secure the support of a couple of big delegations, in order to go over. It will not be easy. In Pennsylvania, with 73 votes, Governor James Duff favors Vandenberg. So does Governor Driscoll in New Jersey, with 35 votes. In Illinois, with 56 votes, Colonel Robert R. McCormick will be trying to nominate Senator Taft or the next best thing, although Governor Dwight Green will be looking fo plums to pluck from the pie. Again in California, with 53 votes, Governor Earl Warren is a candidate himself.

None the less, Dewey will have a powerful appeal. In the words of one of the wiseacres whose analysis this is, "People like making a President next best thing to being a President." Because he will be so near to nomination, Dewey can tell the chieftains of the big delegations that they have only to lift their fingers to put him over. A change of heart by Governor Duff, or Governor Warren, should alone be enough to put the great prize in Dewey's eager grasp. His chances are not to be discounted.

The fourth ballot should show whether Dewey has gone over. If he has not made it, this will be the beginning of the all-out Vandenberg phase of the convention, while the name of Speaker Martin is also loudly shouted by the kind of Republican who favors the little man from Massachusetts. Vandenberg has three immense assets. First, he is without doubt the most eminent single figure the Republican party boasts. Second, he is everybody else's second choice, after themselves. And third, although he has no organization, and is still driving his supporters almost wild by firmly not conniving, he has some very shrewd operators who want him nominated.

If Dewey does not go over, the odds on Vandenberg will be very heavy indeed. The possibility of Vandenberg's withdrawal cannot be wholly discarded, however, and the absence of a really centralized Vandenberg management might also make difficulties. Thus the wiseacres think that Vandenberg too can conceivably fail to make it. In this case, the Republican convention will become a sort of writhing basket of eels, from which almost anything can emerge.

Time will tell whether the wiseacres are right or wrong. They are virtually certain, anyway, to revise their opinions again before the Republicans gather at Philadelphia to propose a leader for this nation in the combined atmosphere of a wardheeler's chowder-march and annual rally of the jollier morticians.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Home On The Range

We drove through Monmouth out of Yellowstone National Park for another hundred miles, more or less, through snow-capped mountains, past herds of antelope, by multi-hued pheasants, until we reached the ranch of Ole Fallon, member of the Montana Legislature. His wife, Christina, had prepared a glorious dinner for us, cooked as no fancy restaurant would even know how to prepare food for fastidious farmers.

And table was set in the kitchen where the aroma of home-made rolls, of cream gravy and braised chicken added zest to the appetites of hungry tourists. It was more like a harvest-time table, heavy-laden with good things to eat, with homemade pot-cheese, and homemade grape jelly, and preserved cranberries.

Ole is a typical Montana rancher who owns about 1200 acres, considered not too large in those parts. He has paid for his land, for his cattle, for his sheep. He owes no one anything. He, like most ranchers in those parts, has learned much from the years of drought. He has learned not to owe anybody anything; therefore, there will be no one to take from him the fruits of his labor, his land and his cattle.

That he learned from the bad years of the Dust Bowl, when rain did not fall and the grass did not grow, and the cattle died on the range and the banks foreclosed the mortgages.

He also learned something in the New Deal days. He learned that the government talks bigger than it does; that so-called experts often do not understand more than books can tell them; that government aid is no substitute for experience, hard work and common sense.

I came upon Ole while he was engaged preparing his irrigation ditches, and discovered that a good farmer does his own irrigating and does not depend upon government and all its rules and regulations.

I also learned from Ole that a man who is not a good rancher is not liked as a candidate for public office. We were discussing candidates and he made the point that a man who does not winter his cattle properly and does not protect his neighbors by mending his fences, cannot be relied upon. And, of course, that is logical. If a man does not know how to live, how can he do the nation's business.

Now, Ole is a Norwegian immigrant, as is his wife, Christina. They came to this country seeking work and opportunity, which they found here. They did not settle in crowded cities, in the strange ghettoes where European tongues are retined and professionals earn their living by keeping alive ancient grudges. They went to live among Americans in distant places, near tiny villages, where the dignity of person is maintained as an individual right and where the center of society is not some complex social organism artifically created in the maelstroms of big cities but is in the family—husband, wife and children laboring and living together. That is the American tradition. It is the tradition of Western civilization.

Ole and his family were Americanized neither by the synthesis of artificial pressures nor are they a product of the melting pot. They have been fused into American life until they have become as much American as the snow-cappec Rockies in whose shadows their cattle and sheep roam.

They are not peasants, nor driven nomads who range from state to state looking for seasonal work and better relief laws. They have the dignity of landowners and land-workers who can look into the rising sun and be unafraid. And they rear their children that way in American colleges.

And so Ole works his land and his neighbors send him to th State Legislature, as they hav sent his close friends, Zales Ecto to the United States Senate, an Wesley A. D'Ewart, to the Hous of Representatives. Working farm ers and ranchers, these, who, hav ing lived by the soil of America love it—and understand it. It i their soil. It is their opportunit and their hope for their children They have no affiliations wit what they left behind them i Europe because they have sun their roots deep in our land whic they have made their own b work.

Everybody Should Get Into Security Bond Buying

On the back of your weekly pay envelope there is printed a little table showing your salary or wages and three deductions therefrom: Amount Earned. Less Federal Old Age Tax. Less Federal Income Tax. Less War Bonds.

Your take-home pay, of course, is your salary or wages with the sum of the three items deducted. The fourth is up to you altogether. That's the one we want to talk about. The space opposite it could remain blank, but should it?

The government is embarked on a great bond-selling movement, which is primarily a campaign against inflation. Carried to the limit, inflation could wreck about everything. Lynn C. Lashley, chairman of the Allegany County Savings Bond Committee, has already received a letter of commendation from Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder for the fine response which has been made in the campaign here. To be sure the Allegany county goal of $1,700,000 has not yet been reached, but during the first few weeks of the drive sales totalled $265,681, and it can be certain that it has been substantially increased since the last report issued by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond.

At this time when we are in the midst of an inflationary period with many vast programs, perhaps beyond the capacity of the nation, this bond drive will be very helpful in persuading people not to spend all the money which they may earn. It is the tremendous spending of individuals added to that of the government and business which has forced prices up, which may create a dangerous condition if the price rise is resumed.

Here is the opportunity for a mass movement that would get the results which everybody desires. Your direct interest in it is greater than that of the government, which could always—to use a familiar phrase—"spend and spend and spend, and tax and tax and tax." If you spend only what you need to spend, and be sure it is needed, and buy bonds with the rest, and if your neighbors do the same, prices will have to fall all over the land.

Furthermore, you would have means at hand to take care of illness or other family misfortunes, and take advantage later of some vital opportunity. The sales made in the Allegany County campaign will, as Secretary Snyder has pointed out "open new family horizons, add stability to future markets of industry, and build that internal citizenship strength that stems from widespread ownership of America's prime securities."

Revolt of Southern Democrats has brought up many questions which have been the subject of political dissension through the years, and on which there has never been agreement. Such as whether you bruise or crush the mint.

And Still The Surplus In The U. S. Treasury Grows

When the recent income tax reduction bill was passed by Congress there were all sorts of dire predictions by the Administration as to what the cut would do to the nation's economy. The President, in his veto message, said this was no time to cut taxes. He harped on the fact that the reduction would cut into the much-needed surplus.

Yet today Government experts look for a $7,200,000,000 surplus with a possibility that the January prediction of a $7,500,000,000 surplus based on the former tax rate may be reached. In other words, there will still be just as big a surplus, and the people have enjoyed a reduction in taxes.

Of course the reason is that revenues exceeded estimates and the Government has cut spending. Also, the full force of the European Recovery Program spending has not yet been felt. That will come next year to affect Treasury balances and a closer watch on economies will be necessary if another surplus is to be achieved But what is happening now proves that Congress knew what it was doing when it insisted, over the President's veto on giving the American taxpayer a break.

It seems incredible that three weeks from now the GOP convention will be over and the pre-convention predictions of all but one of the hopeful will be buried in the hot air file.

Obsequies Have Been Held For Czechoslovakia

The democracy of Czechoslovakia died on February 25 last, after the Communist coup. It was formally buried a week ago in a Communist-run election which in all essentials followed the totalitarianism model of Russia But the 30-year-old democracy was not interred until its destroyers had received a clear warning at the polls that the Czechs will have an underground opposition.

The Communists, under Premier-Dictator Gottwald, desperately wanted a 90 per cent majority — the minimum standard set by Moscow practice. The election was carefully rigged to that end. There was only one ticket, the National Front, under Communist control. Opposition could be expressed only by casting a blank ballot, in full view of election officials allied to the police. Most of the voting places were cluttered with portraits of Gottwald and Stalin, with signs advising the voters that it would be "treason" to vote against the official party.

In spite of all this the Red riggers failed to get their 90 per cent. Of the 8,000,000 voters registered, 6,400,000 were announced as casting official ballots, about 80 per cent. More than 700,000 blank ballots were boldly cast before the officials. The rest were declared invalid for one reason or another. In some districts the blanks ran to 40 per cent of the total. Prague, where the government made a frantic bid for unanimity, produced a 25 per cent negative vote.

This impressive demonstration of the underlying democratic spirit of the Czechs is important for the long future—for all countries behind the Iron Curtain. But in the immediate future it will mean more rigidly rigged elections. Czechoslovakia, the country on which so many democratic hopes were focussed after World War I, is now condemned for an indefinite number of years to totalitarian dictatorship.

To make them sound more attractive, why not price GI houses at $7,000, but with windows, doors, floors and roofs extra?

KEEP WELL HOW TO

The Mailbag

Numerous letters come to the desk of the feature editor. Some are cordial, others unfriendly; the majority ask for information but a certain percentage offer suggestions. Many readers have "cures" for this or that and want to share their discoveries through the medium of a newspaper. A few letters are purely complimntary; others object to particular statements and wish to voice their disagreement. The average reader enjoys a dash of humor but now and then one will write that a health column is no place for witticisms.

Dr. Van Dellen

The mailbag of the past two weeks, for example, brought comments from physicians and others on an article describing the Johns Hopkins Big Four—Welch, Halsted, Kelly, and Osler. These men were well known in their day, and some of the letters came from individuals who knew them years ago. In the article in question, I stated that Dr. Halsted had married Miss Hampton, the nurse for whom he had devised rubber gloves. Several readers though I was in error but it develops that there were two nurses named Hampton at the hospital at that time. Miss Caroline, who was the operating room nurse, became Mrs. Halsted; Miss Isabel, the superintendent of nurses, married Dr. Hunter Robb.

A few days later, I discussed the situation created by the shortage of nurses. As a result, several young ladies inquired where they could register for training. Various hospitals wrote approvingly but many more nurses voiced their grievances of hard work, inadequate salaries, split shifts, etc. Some objected to the suggestion that practical nurses might prove the answer to the problem.

Then came an article on the accident picture. The National Safety council and other similar groups asked permission to reproduce this material in their journals to help in public education campaigns. A discussion of rabies brought the usual number of complaints from "anti" groups. Meanwhile several cases of this horrible disease developed in a middle western state and one child died as a result of the infection.

In an article on combating arthritis, an offer was made to send out leaflets on heat, massage, etc. in treatment. The staff was snowed under with requests and all hands fell to in order to mail out the material. In these strikebound days, a certain number of errors are bound to appear and the majority of readers bear with us.

And so it goes. Each article is of interest to some particular person; and the public in general is always looking for means of improving their own health and that of the family. As a rule, the response to any column always keeps its editor on his toes. He knows he cannot rest on his laurels but must produce—otherwise the work has little value.

DISTORTED TOE

R. K. writes: I have developed hammer-toe on the right foot. Is operation necessary? Must the toes be removed?

Reply

Mild cases can be helped by manipulation and proper footgear. If the condition is severe operation is required. The deformity can be corrected without removing the toe.

BLOOD CELL DESTRUCTION

H. T. writes: What is plastic anemia?

Reply

In aplastic (no relation to plastics) anemia, the red cells are destroyed faster than they can be manufactured in the body. When the cause is due to chemicals of drugs, recovery follows the elimination of the offending substance.

STOP THE HABIT

Mrs. F. K. writes: My doctor ells me that I am old fashioned because I allow my 22 month old baby to have a bottle when he takes his nap and at night. Is he correct? He says it spoils the shape of the inside of the mouth and is a bad habit.

Reply

Absolutely. In addition it might affect the alignment of the teeth.

EDEMA

A. Q. writes: Can the heart develop dropsy?

Reply

No, but when certain chambers in the heart fail to function, the return flow of blood to the organ is affected. As a result, fluid accumulates in the lungs, liver and lower extremities.

HIGH CALCIUM LEVEL

Mrs. M. writes: What causes too much calcium in the system?

Reply

The most common are excessive doses o vitamin D and disturbances of the parathyroid gland.

STEER CLEAR

Mrs. L. writes: Will you tell me how to cope with a violently emotional, screaming person.

Reply

Leave her alone. Later, a psychiatrist should be consulted and, by treating the cause, future attacks can be minimized.

FATLESS FEET

Mrs. E. M. writes: When I walk on pavements my soles bother me dreadfully. I was told it was because my feet are bony. Is there anything I can do?

Reply

Padding your shoes will probably help.

CHOREA

Mrs. R. writes: Can a child with St. Vitus' dance ever become normal?

Reply

Yes, the majority of cases subside in time.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, June 6—It hasn't been publicized, but the census takers have unearthed the shocking fact that ten million American adults cannot read or write.

Yet Congress, willing to spend billions to train young men for war, has bottled up the $300,000,000 aid-to-education bill to train young men and women for peace.

Georgia's Democratic Congressman Don Wheeler has been begging for 218 of his House mates to sign a discharge petition to force the federal-aid-to-education bill out of the Education and Labor Committee where it has been salted away by the GOP leadership. But he has not been able to scrape up more than 43 names!

Chief obstacles are Speaker Joe Martin and majority leader Charlie Halleck, who have ordered the Committee not to let the bill out. Also, they have passed word to Republicans not to sign any discharge petition. So far only one Republican has defied these orders—North Dakota's Bill Lemke, who joined with 42 Democrats already on the petition.

However, minority leader Sam Rayburn also has quietly blocked the petition and has succeeded in keeping Texas and Virginia Democrats from signing.

Less Literate Than Russia

Meanwhile, literacy in the United States has sunk to an alarming low—probably lower than Russia. What the public also doesn't realize is that the nation's ten million illiterates over 24 years old are not Southern Negroes, but many of them native-born whites. Official statistics show that 4,200,000 adults, who cannot read or write, are whites born in this country. Another 3,100,000 are foreign-born whites, whereas only 2,700,000 are Negroes. The remaining handful are Latin Americans and Orientals by birth.

Furthermore, illiteracy isn't found exclusively in the South. For example, more than one million illiterate adults live in New York, another 696,000 in Pennsylvania and 462,000 in Illinois. However, 36 per cent of Louisiana's total population cannot read or write.

During the war, the draft boards weeded out 350,000 young men who could only sign their name with an X. Of these, 150,000 were physically fit to serve in the Army but were disqualified because of lack of education—a loss to the country of approximately 15 divisions.

Yet House leaders are not willing to spend a few million dollars on a bill already passed by the Senate and which would again make America the most enlightened nation in the world.

State Department's Feeble Voice

Not in years has Congress been caught with a better case of being wrong than in the current squabble over the Voice of America. Yet the diplomats haven't been able to make the public realize that Congress, not the diplomats, are to blame.

Last year Republican economizers cut the Voice of America's appropriation to ribbons, told the State Department to broadcast through private radio channels. The State Department obeyed. It farmed out Latin American radio programs to the National Broadcasting Company, which then proceeded to concoct a series of slipshod programs that insulted Senators.

Now the Senators are mad because the State Department carried out their orders. They are also mad because the State Department didn't have enough money to hire men to monitor the daily deluge of words which NBC and other private radio networks sent abroad.

But the State Department is so meek, mild and inarticulate that it hasn't told the Congressmen in decisive, reverberating language that it was all their own fault.

Note—The more you see of the State Department's propaganda operation, the better Elmer Davis's job looks. Davis was wartime head of the Office of Information, got kicked around by Congress, did an effective job just the same.

People Use Their Own Voice

Interesting fact about NBC's Voice of America broadcasts is that if NBC operated for General Foods or General Motors with the same carelessness that they worked for their Government, they would be out of business. Looks like dividends come ahead of patriotism.

In contrast, thousands of individual Americans have been helping put across effective propaganda to Europe, with no financial help, no guidance from the State Department and not even any thanks. Here are some of them:

The United Nations Council of Philadelphia is flooding Europe with letters and getting a lot of fine reaction in return . . . Clair McCollough of Station WGAL, Lancaster, Pa., Paul Bartless of KFRE, Fresno, Calif., and B. T. Whitmore of WFBC, Greenville, S. C., are arranging family programs from typical American neighborhoods—telling Europe about life in the USA. World Wide Broadcasting Foundation is transmitting them shortwave to Europe . . . The Richmond, Va., Professional Institute got up a special edition of its college paper in French to be exchanged with French schools and universities . . . Mrs. Isabella Greenway King, former Congresswoman from Arizona, has helped organize "Operation Democracy" which not only has sent relief to Europe, but follows it up with friendship letters . . . Generoso Pope, the New York Italian-American publisher, has helped conduct a shortwave trans-Atlantic radio contest in Italy on "How to Win the Peace and Make Democracy Live." All sorts of people—Allis-Chalmers, Ingersoll Watches, Harman, Bulova, Helbros Watches, Endicott-Johnson Shoes, Clippercraft Suits, Wing Shirts, Emerson Radios, Lee Hats, Kruger Jewelry Co., of Austin, Tex., Martin Gruenborn in Seattle, Muskogee, Okla., Broadcasting Co.—all have contributed prizes to the Italian Democracy contest. They had no thought of business gain because their products aren't sold in Italy . . . This is just a small cross section of what thousands of Americans, with no expectation of reward other than helping their country, have been doing to wage the difficult battle of peace.

Senate Chapiain's Congregation

Kindly, 82-year-old Martha Scott shocked the ladies of Senate Chaplain Peter Marshall's Presbyterian church the other day when she showed up at their weekly tea with a Negro nurse. They were even more shocked when Miss Scott announced her intention of coming the following week with her colored nurse.

The ladies called a frantic conference, agreed that the nurse would have to be barred. A delegation got on the phone to notify Miss Scott.

"I'm sorry," replied someone at the other end, probably the nurse in question, "but Miss Scott passed away an hour ago."

Government Agency Puts Out Warning On Farm Land Prices

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. June 6—The Agriculture Department in Washinbton is putting out warnings as o high prices of farm land. Their agents are advising against the purchase of more property at present prices. Readers are also disturbed by the chart which appeared on page 79 of Time Magazine for May 3 of this year.

The facts are that these big increases in land values are not the same in different sections of the country. Probably the farm values fairly near large cities are abnormally high. They are selling not on their value as producing farms, but rather on their speculative value for sub-divisions, etc. This also applies to pasture land near small cities. There seems to be an abnorman demand for bottom land which in many cases is selling for above a sensible price.

The special concern of the Agriculture Department, however, is in connection with land being bought on mortgage. They are very much oposed, at the present time, for farmers to buy land for which they cannot pay cash, believing that sooner or later a crash is coming, due to an inevitable decline in farm prices. Oo course, the ultimate value of a farm is whether or not it can raise crops which will pay a fair rate of interest on the land after all expenses, and this of course depends upon the price received, as well as the wages and other expenses which must be paid.

City and Town Property

The Federal Reserve Bank in Washington is especially disturbed at the continued climb in mortgage loans on city and town property. This is probably due in part to the activity of the Federal Loan and Savings Banks in soliciting mortgages. Certainly this should be curbed at the present time. It is worng for mortgage loans on real estate to be climbing during a period in which business loans are dropping off steadily and are being reduced.

These Federal Loan and Savings Banks must be careful not to be part of a vicious circle whereby someday the property, upon which they are now loaning and which loans are in part guaranteed by the Government, will come back into the Government's hands. If the Government then adopts a policy of selling these houses at auction, the houses for which the veteran now pays $10,000 will be selling in the open market for $5,00 or even less It is entirely possible that what happened to city and small town real estate in the 30's, could easily repeat in the 50's.

Reasons For Being Cautious

There are four definite reasons which people should carefully consider before bidding up prices for any kind of real estate. These reasons are as follows:

(1) The upward trend in mortgage indebtedness, which in some localities is reaching a dangerous point.

(2) Threats of surplus farm products and even certain manufactured goods due to the present high level of production.

(3) The recent downward trend in the buying power both of farmers due to lower prices of farm products and of the industrial population due to the increased cost of living.

(4) The fact that a large proportion of the money now being sent to Europe will be used to aid Europe to produce more farm products and manufacture goods in order to be independent of us.

How To Invest

Use your earnings first to pay up your mortgages and other debts. Then put your buildings and machinery into good shape so you can go through the next depression without any maintenance costs. After this, give your wife a break by buying her a modern kitchen and bathroom. She was patient and thrifty for you during the hard times; she now is getting older and cannot do so much. Be liberal with your church and give your children a useful education in agriculture ,mechanics or business. Above all, have a good savings bank account or a safe deposit box of U. S. Government "E" bonds. DON'T KEEP THESE IN YOUR HOUSE.

MATTER OF FACT

By STEWART ALSOP

Philadelphia Story

WASHINGTON.

It is early yet for the boldest to begin forecasting the pattern of events that will unroll amid the bustle, squalor and confusion of the Republican Convention at Philadelphia. This, therefore, is emphatically not a forecast. It is, rather, a report on what two or three of the most highly placed Republican professionals are inclined to think may happen, after peering into the chipped old crystal balls, thumbing through their almanacs, watching the flight of birds, and using other expedients to pierce the dark mystery of the future.

On the first ballot, these wiseacres think that Governor Thomas E. Dewey will show 300 plus, Senator Robert A. Taft 200 plus and Governor Harold E. Stassen 150 plus, while Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg will get the 43 Michigan votes and a handful from enthusiasts elsewhere. This is a balance of strength presaging a deadlock, in a convention which requires 548 votes to nominate.

The second ballot will bring out the aces in the hole, which the stronger candidates, Dewey and Taft, will have carefully concealed with a view to impressing everyone with their irresistible strength. (A candidate who did not hide his aces in the hole would be regarded as a man who did not play our curious political game according to its curious rules.) When the aces have been triumphantly slapped upon the table, Dewey is expected to rise to about 370 plus, while Taft goes to 250 or above. After his recent misfortunes, Stassen's aces are not considered to be numerous, despite the game fight he is making.

The Taft strength is thought likely to come near its peak on the second ballot. (Taft-backers among the Republicans are already developing an ominous tendency to speak lovingly of Speaker Joseph W. Martin and longingly of Senator John Bricker. Either of these, being far more biddable, would suit the Republican conservatives better than Taft in any case.)

On the third ballot, local patriotism would weaken; the desertion of the favorite sons will begin. Dewey is credited with enough attraction for this group of delegates to bring him at least to 450 and perhaps as high as 470 votes—somewhere between 80 and a hundred short of nomination. Meanwhile, the swing to Vandenberg should also begin on the third ballot. It is even possible that Stassen, who will most wish to stop if he cannot be nominated himself, will quickly accept elimination and take his place in the Vandenberg camp.

The beginning of the swing to Vandenberg will provide the test for Dewey. Dewey will then somehow have to secure the support of a couple of big delegations, in order to go over. It will not be easy. In Pennsylvania, with 73 votes, Governor James Duff favors Vandenberg. So does Governor Driscoll in New Jersey, with 35 votes. In Illinois, with 56 votes, Colonel Robert R. McCormick will be trying to nominate Senator Taft or the next best thing, although Governor Dwight Green will be looking fo plums to pluck from the pie. Again in California, with 53 votes, Governor Earl Warren is a candidate himself.

None the less, Dewey will have a powerful appeal. In the words of one of the wiseacres whose analysis this is, "People like making a President next best thing to being a President." Because he will be so near to nomination, Dewey can tell the chieftains of the big delegations that they have only to lift their fingers to put him over. A change of heart by Governor Duff, or Governor Warren, should alone be enough to put the great prize in Dewey's eager grasp. His chances are not to be discounted.

The fourth ballot should show whether Dewey has gone over. If he has not made it, this will be the beginning of the all-out Vandenberg phase of the convention, while the name of Speaker Martin is also loudly shouted by the kind of Republican who favors the little man from Massachusetts. Vandenberg has three immense assets. First, he is without doubt the most eminent single figure the Republican party boasts. Second, he is everybody else's second choice, after themselves. And third, although he has no organization, and is still driving his supporters almost wild by firmly not conniving, he has some very shrewd operators who want him nominated.

If Dewey does not go over, the odds on Vandenberg will be very heavy indeed. The possibility of Vandenberg's withdrawal cannot be wholly discarded, however, and the absence of a really centralized Vandenberg management might also make difficulties. Thus the wiseacres think that Vandenberg too can conceivably fail to make it. In this case, the Republican convention will become a sort of writhing basket of eels, from which almost anything can emerge.

Time will tell whether the wiseacres are right or wrong. They are virtually certain, anyway, to revise their opinions again before the Republicans gather at Philadelphia to propose a leader for this nation in the combined atmosphere of a wardheeler's chowder-march and annual rally of the jollier morticians.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Home On The Range

We drove through Monmouth out of Yellowstone National Park for another hundred miles, more or less, through snow-capped mountains, past herds of antelope, by multi-hued pheasants, until we reached the ranch of Ole Fallon, member of the Montana Legislature. His wife, Christina, had prepared a glorious dinner for us, cooked as no fancy restaurant would even know how to prepare food for fastidious farmers.

And table was set in the kitchen where the aroma of home-made rolls, of cream gravy and braised chicken added zest to the appetites of hungry tourists. It was more like a harvest-time table, heavy-laden with good things to eat, with homemade pot-cheese, and homemade grape jelly, and preserved cranberries.

Ole is a typical Montana rancher who owns about 1200 acres, considered not too large in those parts. He has paid for his land, for his cattle, for his sheep. He owes no one anything. He, like most ranchers in those parts, has learned much from the years of drought. He has learned not to owe anybody anything; therefore, there will be no one to take from him the fruits of his labor, his land and his cattle.

That he learned from the bad years of the Dust Bowl, when rain did not fall and the grass did not grow, and the cattle died on the range and the banks foreclosed the mortgages.

He also learned something in the New Deal days. He learned that the government talks bigger than it does; that so-called experts often do not understand more than books can tell them; that government aid is no substitute for experience, hard work and common sense.

I came upon Ole while he was engaged preparing his irrigation ditches, and discovered that a good farmer does his own irrigating and does not depend upon government and all its rules and regulations.

I also learned from Ole that a man who is not a good rancher is not liked as a candidate for public office. We were discussing candidates and he made the point that a man who does not winter his cattle properly and does not protect his neighbors by mending his fences, cannot be relied upon. And, of course, that is logical. If a man does not know how to live, how can he do the nation's business.

Now, Ole is a Norwegian immigrant, as is his wife, Christina. They came to this country seeking work and opportunity, which they found here. They did not settle in crowded cities, in the strange ghettoes where European tongues are retined and professionals earn their living by keeping alive ancient grudges. They went to live among Americans in distant places, near tiny villages, where the dignity of person is maintained as an individual right and where the center of society is not some complex social organism artificially created in the maelstroms of big cities but is in the family—husband, wife and children laboring and living together. That is the American tradition. It is the tradition of Western civilization.

Ole and his family were Americanized neither by the synthesis of artificial pressures nor are they a product of the melting pot. They have been fused into American life until they have become as much American as the snow-capped Rockies in whose shadows their cattle and sheep roam.

They are not peasants, nor driven nomads who range from state to state looking for seasonal work and better relief laws. They have the dignity of landowners and land-workers who can look into the rising sun and be unafraid. And they rear their children that way in American colleges.

And so Ole works his land and his neighbors send him to the State Legislature, as they have sent his close friends, Zales Ecton to the United States Senate, and Wesley A. D'Ewart, to the House of Representatives. Working farmers and ranchers, these, who, having lived by the soil of America love it—and understand it. It is their soil. It is their opportunity and their hope for their children. They have no affiliations with what they left behind them in Europe because they have sunk their roots deep in our land which they have made their own by work.

Carburetor Too Rich Makes Motorist Too Poor

Car owners who are wasting money and not getting proper gas mileage due to over-rich mixtures will be pleased to learn of a Wisconsin inventor who has developed a very clever unit that helps save gasoline by "Vacu-mating". It is automatic and operates on the supercharge principle. Easily installed in a few minutes. Fits all cars, trucks, tractors. The manufacturers, the Vacumatic Carburetor Co., 7617-579C State St., Wauwatosa, Wis., are offering a Vacu-matic to anyone who will install it on his car and help introduce it to others. They will gladly send full free particulars if you write them or just send your name and address on a penny post card today.—Advertisement.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS
(Louella Parsons on vacation)

HOLLYWOOD, June 6 (INS) — Gwynned Filling, the New York career girl whose private life was photographed from stove to stork club by a national mag, is out to sell her adventures for the screen and it looks like RKO has got them.

Judy Canova

She would like to star in her own story and since she is highly photogenic there is no reason why she shouldn't if she can emote at all.

If she can't, she is willing to turn her working girl adventures over to a better actress.

Anyway, the boy she publicly confessed to liking "too well." Charlie Strauss, follows her to Hollywood and their friends suspect they will be married here.

Police are now convinced the housebreaker, who has entered Celeste Holm's house three times, is a potential kidnaper. Although many valuable things are accessible, there has been no indication of attempted burglary.

Celeste was frightened out of her wits when she was called home from the Florentine Gardens show the other evening and heard the story her baby's nurse had to tell her.

The man entered the house immediately after the night watchman had passed on his regular patrol. He came immediately to the locked nursery door and when the child's nurse screamed, the prowler just increased his attempts to get in.

Celeste can hardly wait to move out of the district and into her new home, an address she is begging her friends not to divulge.

No sooner is George Sanders back in Hollywood than Zsa Zsa Gabor Hilton writes a friend here that she is coming out to visit her sister, Eva. Says she is coming out to show off her baby daughter, but followers of her revived romance with Sanders in New York suspect he is the attraction.

George's reconciliation with his wife doesn't seem to be getting anywhere. When he is in New York, she is in Hollywood and when he is here, she manages to be in New York.

Sounds in the night (clubs): It is all off with Estelle Taylor and handsome detective Jim Ellis. Says he grew too serious and spoiled her laugh life. Estelle was with Max Marks at the Ciro's opening of Phil Ohman.

Wonderful of Judy Canova taking her show and paying all expenses to aid flood victims in Oregon. Come on you big Hollywood stars, don't let her do it all.

Judy and her gang appear June 12 at the 40,000-seat Multnomah Stadium in Portland and they expect to raise $200,000. But with the aid of some big names from Hollywood studios they might be able to double that amount.

There are thousands homeless and destitute from one of the greatest catastrophies in American history—so if you stars who can do something to aid are free to do so, contact Mayor Riley's disaster relief committee in Portland.

Hollywood in Shorts: Is all well with the Joan Blondell-Mike Todd marriage? I am not saying—I am just asking.

Latest flash on Errol Flynn, out of New York, is that he has been put on a milk diet and that he is suffering qualms of conscience about a couple of those night club escapades, and tiffs with Nora Flynn, whose angelic patience was badly strained.

The Myrt Blums are off for a month in New York where they will meet up with their well-known relatives, Jack Benny and Mary Livingston, for some laughs.

The Tom D'Andreas are expecting a baby and when Tom heard the news on "Fighter Squadron" location in Michigan, he talked Raoul Walsh into letting him fly home to be with his wife for a few days.

Gregory Peck is talking to June Lockhart about doing "For Love or Money" at Laguna this summer, the same role she wowed them with on Broadway. She will be here for an Eagle-Lion movie, so she is listening.

Italy's Heavy Champ Must Defend Crown

ROME (AP) — Enrico Bertola, Italian heavyweight champion now touring the United States, will have to return here to defend his title before Oct. 23, 1948, the Italian Boxing Federation has decided.

Mentore Mazzali, who won the qualification tournament in Turin several weeks ago, has been authorized to fight Bertola for the heavyweight crown by that date.

Bertola will forfeit the title if the match does not take place within the time limit, according to the federation's ruling.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—When the Notre Dame Old Timers, led by Johnny Lujack, George Connor and Ziggy Czarobski, defeated the Irish varsity, 20-14 this spring, it was only the second victory for the Old Timers in the history of the series. The other win came in 1934, the Old Timers gaining a 6-0 edge.

Hyndman Firemen Stop Frostburg, 5 To 3

Mrs. Arthur Hoffa Fires Possible In Rifle Match

Barton Gunner Hits 400-25X In League Test

Frostburg, Fort Hill And Cumberland Win

WESTERN MARYLAND RIFLE LEAGUE
Standing Of The Teams

Team	Won	Lost
Cumberland	3	0
Fort Hill	2	0
Frostburg	2	1
LaVale	1	1
Cold Spring	1	2
Barton	0	3
Fort Ashby	0	2

The big news in the 3rd Western Maryland Rifle League match held Sunday evening on the Frostburg Rifle Club range was the firing of a 400-25x possible over the Dewar Course by Barton's Mrs. Arthur Hoffa. This is the second 400 possible fired in outdoor league competition since the Western Maryland League's organization in 1944. The other possible, a 400-21x score, was tallied by Frostburg's Harry Morgan in September, 1946.

Notwithstanding the possible fired by Mrs. Hoffa and a 399-28x scored by Arthur Hoffa, the Barton shooters bowed to the steam rollering Cumberland club, led by Leo Leasure, 399-26x, and Ralph Cramer and Roy Ringler, each with 397-23x. The score: Cumberland—1984-106x; Barton—1958-86x.

Fort Hill downed LaVale, 1975-102x to 1943-68x. Frank and Charles Simpson headed the South End list with 397-20x and 395-21x respectively. LaVale's Paul Johnson, 391-12x, and Earl Emmart, 390-16x, placed first and second for their team.

Creegan Wins Babe Ruth Award, Keegan Trophy Goes To Collins

Dorsey Captures 10th Rapplier Club Prize

The student-athlete award goes annually to the senior letterman obtaining the highest scholastic average in the graduating class. Dorsey was regular end on the Explorers' 1948 football team.

Creegan Gets Ruth Award

The Babe Ruth Award for outstanding performance and sportsmanship in baseball was presented to Patrick A. Creegan, star southpaw of the Explorers' diamond aggregation. This trophy was obtained from Babe Ruth by Jack Shaffer for presentation to the winner. In connection with the presentation of the prize came the following telegram from Babe Ruth, Bronxville, N. Y.:

One of the most coveted prizes was won by James A. Collins, allaround athlete, for character, loyalty and citizenship donated by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Graham in memory of their son, Lt. Fred Graham, killed in action. Collins was named by a vote of senior students.

Collins also won the William V. Keegan Award, a gold wrist watch, for being adjudged the outstanding athlete participating in the greatest number of school activities. The trophy was donated by the former LaSalle basketball coach and present police and fire commissioner of Cumberland.

The Rap-O-Ram Club Awards for football, basketball and baseball, donated by the Class of 1941, and drawn by all the lettermen in the graduating class went to James Dorsey (football), Patrick Creegan (basketball) and Joseph E. Reissig (baseball).

The "Spirit of LaSalle" Award, donated by Mrs. Carl F. Schmutz, in memory of her son Carl Ray Schmutz, 1943, was divided equally among the first five members of the basketball team, namely, James Collins, Joseph Robert Murray, Jack Stotler, Norman Sell and Robert Wood.

Cager, Gridder Honored

Awards for the best all-around basketball player and the best all-around football player in the senior class, donated by Mrs. Kalbaugh in memory of her grandsons, Don and James Laffey, went to Michael Patrick Blake (football) and James Collins (basketball).

In addition to the awards already mentioned Creegan was presented a cash gift by members of the Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion. Creegan starred with the Legion junior nine and is now a member of the Legion's senior team in the Interstate League.

All awards were presented by Brother E. Clement, F.S.C., principal of LaSalle High School.

Commenting on the awards won by Creegan, Dorsey and Collins, Brother Clement said:

"These three combined the rare qualities of athletic abilities coupled with keen interest in school activities and outstanding loyalty to school by services rendered outside of athletic and scholastic engagements."

According to Brother Gregory, director of public relations and moderator of athletics, Collins, Creegan and Dorsey were "ideal boys to be associated with. Whether inside or outside the classroom; on or off the field or court, they proved themselves students, athletes and gentlemen. I'll miss their presence in the next seasons to come."

Jim Demaret Cops Albuquerque Open

Wins By Four Strokes Over "Skip" Alexander

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 6 (AP)—Jimmy Demaret clipped five strokes off par for a 67 in the fourth round and a 72-hole score of 268 to win first money in the Albuquerque Open Golf Tournament today.

Growling Clayton Heafner slipped to a two-over-par 74 after trailing Demaret by a single stroke for two days. This dropped the Charlotte, N. C., big fellow to fourth with a 72-hole score of 276.

Ahead of him by one blow was steady E. J. (Dutch) Harrison from Little Rock, Ark., with 206-69—275.

Demaret's 1947 record of 64 for the 6,813-yard University of New Mexico course was left intact with his first day 65 and that today by Alexander the nearest approaches. Par for the hilly public links layout is 35-37—72.

Next finishers in the top 10 were George Schoux, Mamroneck, N. Y., 210-67—277 for $700; Bill Nary, Albuquerque and Phoenix, Ariz., 209-69—278 for $600; George Schneiter, Ogden, Utah, 209-70—279 for $520 and a tie with an Albuquerque amateur, Lee Griffith, who had 207-72—279; and Herman Keiser, Akron, O., 211-69—280, Johnny Bulla, Phoenix, 213-67—280 and Marty Furgol, Utica, N. Y., 209-71—280, all good for $390.

A mighty home run wallop by Bill Cumiskey to deep right-center in the tenth inning enabled Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, to defeat the Hyndman V.F.W. and extend its winning streak to eight games yesterday in an Interstate Baseball League game at Community Park. The score was 6-5.

Not only did Cumiskey win the game by hitting the first ball pitched for four sacks in the extra inning but it was his first homer that knotted the count at 5-5 in the last of the 8th.

Manager Art Garbark's team solved the slants of Glenn Evans for 11 safeties. Tommy Powers and Bracey led the assault with three blows each. Powers' collection included a double and triple. Robb belted a three-bagger for the Vets.

Moorefield's American Legion team racked up 13 hits and defeated the Romney Rockets at Romney by the score of 11-8. Bill Harman and Fisher were the "big guns" for Moorefield. The former hammered a homer and double and drove home five runs while Fisher clouted a triple and homer, batted in two runs and scored thrice himself.

Mrs. Arthur Hoffa Fires Possible In Rifle Match

Barton Gunner Hits 400-25X In League Test

WESTERN MARYLAND RIFLE LEAGUE
Standing Of The Teams

Team	Won	Lost
Cumberland	3	0

Frostburg	2	1
LaVale	1	1
Cold Spring	1	2
Barton	0	3
Fort Ashby	0	2

The big news in the 3rd Western Maryland Rifle League match held Sunday evening on the Frostburg Rifle Club range was the firing of a 400-25x possible over the Dewar Course by Barton's Mrs. Arthur Hoffa. This is the second 400 possible fired in outdoor league competition since the Western Maryland League's organization in 1944. The other possible, a 400-21x score, was tallied by Frostburg's Harry Morgan in September, 1946.

Notwithstanding the possible fired by Mrs. Hoffa and a 399-28x scored by Arthur Hoffa, the Barton shooters bowed to the steam rollering Cumberland club, led by Leo Leasure, 399-26x, and Ralph Cramer and Roy Ringler, each with 397-23x. The score: Cumberland—1984-106x; Barton—1958-86x.

Fort Hill downed LaVale, 1975-102x to 1943-68x. Frank and Charles Simpson headed the South End list with 397-20x and 395-21x respectively. LaVale's Paul Johnson, 391-12x, and Earl Emmart, 390-16x, placed first and second for their team.

Events seemed like old times as Frostburg's Harry Morgan with 396-24x and Henry Yates, 396-18x, took Cold Spring to the cleaners by a 1975-91x to 1944-66x count. Charlie Weicht's 391-17x placed high for the Tri-Towners with Mrs. Herb Dawson in second position with 389-15x.

Jim Demaret Cops Albuquerque Open

Wins By Four Strokes Over "Skip" Alexander

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 6 (AP)—Jimmy Demaret clipped five strokes off par for a 67 in the fourth round and a 72-hole score of 268 to win first money in the Albuquerque Open Golf Tournament today.

The Ojai, Calif., sharpshooter breezed home four blows to the good as Stewart (Skip) Alexander, Lexington, N. C., uncorked a flashy 65 to go with his previous 207 for 272 and second place.

Growling Clayton Heafner slipped to a two-over-par 74 after trailing Demaret by a single stroke for two days. This dropped the Charlotte, N. C., big fellow to fourth with a 72-hole score of 276.

Ahead of him by one blow was steady E. J. (Dutch) Harrison from Little Rock, Ark., with 206-69—275.

Demaret's 1947 record of 64 for the 6,813-yard University of New Mexico course was left intact with his first day 65 and that today by Alexander the nearest approaches. Par for the hilly public links layout is 35-37—72.

Harrison won $1,000 and Haefner pocketed $800.

Next finishers in the top 10 were George Schoux, Mamroneck, N. Y., 210-67—277 for $700; Bill Nary, Albuquerque and Phoenix, Ariz., 209-69—278 for $600; George Schneiter, Ogden, Utah, 209-70—279 for $520 and a tie with an Albuquerque amateur, Lee Griffith, who had 207-72—279; and Herman Keiser, Akron, O., 211-69—280, Johnny Bulla, Phoenix, 213-67—280 and Marty Furgol, Utica, N. Y., 209-71—280, all good for $390.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Orland Green, Lonaconing, who died three years ago today, June 7, 1945.

No one knows how much we miss you,
This world would seem like heaven,
If we had you back again.

Your memory lingers in our hearts
Sweet, tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear Orland,
That we do not think of you.

Sadly missed by his Mother,
Sisters and Brothers.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Orland Green, Lonaconing, who died three years ago today, June 7, 1945.

No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain;
This world would seem like heaven,
If we had you back again.

Your memory lingers in our hearts
Sweet, tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear Orland,
That we do not think of you.

Sadly missed by his Mother,
Sisters and Brothers.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

An actor's brain, to coin a seamy simile, is like a midget racing car, it may be small, but it moves plenty fast.

Billy Rose

Example coming up: Back in the '20's, W. C. Fields appeared in an "Earl Carroll's Vanities." One of the great man's comic sketches took place in a dentist's office. On opening night, the prop walls began to topple. Feilds braced them with his back and ad libbed, "They don't build houses these days the way they used to." This crack got a big laugh from the audience, and the falling wall bit was kept in for the rest of the run.

Have another: Toward the end of his caperous career, John Barrymore got mixed up with a sad little farce. One night there weren't more than a dozen spectators out front. Irritated by John's shenanigans, they began to boo. Barrymore stepped to the footlights and said, "You'd better not sart anything. Remember—we outnumber you."

And still another: Mascagni, composer of "Cavalleria Rusticana," once heard an organ grinder cranking tinny excerpts from the opera outside his window. Annoyed by the draggy tempo, the composer rushed out and said, "Here, let me show you how it should be played." He gave the handle a few quick turns and went back into the house.

But my favorite nimble-wit story is only a couple of weeks old. For several months now, N.B.C. has been telecasting a puppet show called "Howdy Doody." It's probably the first real smash the new medium has come up with. Bob Smith, the fellow who MCs the show and supplies Howdy's voice, recently announced that the little blockhead was going to run for President. Overnight 60,000 kids wrote in for free buttons and endorsed the platform which promised free lollypops and three Saturdays a week.

In the middle of Howdy's campaign, the studio roof fell in. Frank Paris, the gent who pulled the strings, demanded a salary raise and claimed that the doll and its name belonged to him. N.B.C. admitted it was Frank's puppet but said it owned the copyright to the Howdy Doody monicker. While the contestants were exchanging frowns and legal papers, Bob Smith did some fast figuring.

At 5 o'clock, that afternoon, a map of the United States was flashed on the television screen and Bob announced that Howdy was flying to Portland, Oregon, to take part in the primaries there. For the next hour, kids in six cities chuckled as Howdy reported his progress over the plane's short wave radio. That took care of the Thursday show.

By Saturday, Frank Paris had decided to move his puppet to an opposition network. That afternoon, Howdy called in from Portland to tell Bob Smith that he was worried about his campaign. He had finally come face-to-face with his rival for office, a Mr. X., and discovered him to be the handsomest man in the world. As a desperate bid for the female vote, Howdy said he was going to have his face overhauled by a plastic surgeon so he, too, would be handsome.

Came Tuesday, and Howdy kept radioing that he was on his way back. The operation had been a success, but his face would have to remain bandaged for two weeks—doctor's orders. Just before the fade-out, Howdy came crashing through the roof of the RCA building and the telecast ended with the puppet dangling from the ceiling by his parachute.

Since which time, N.B.C. has been advertising "the old voice, the new look." When I saw Howdy's show the other day, he was still wearing his bandages, and the kids who were watching it wit hme were anxiously waiting to see his new face.

Who am I going to vote for this November? Well, judging by the names they're throwing around, it might easily be fast-thinking Howdy Doody.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Lux's Miracle

In "The Miracle of The Bells," as I imagine every woman and child now knows, a girl named Olga attained stardom briefly but gloriously in a single motion picture. The name of the picture was "St. Joan" and Olga turned in what appeared to be the greatest performance of acting in theatrical history. She died, coughing and spitting blood, a matter of hours after the final scene was shot and, in accordance with her death bed wish, her body was transported back to Coaltown, Pensylvania, whence she sprang.

John Crosby

In Coaltown, the tenacity of a press agent augmented by the simple faith of a priest contrived to make Olga's name nationally renowned. The purpose of all this front page publicity was simply to procure the release of the motion picture which the producer would like to scrap. Despite the hullabaloo, it was touch and go until the statues in the church moved. Whether or not Divine intervention had anything to do with the rearrangement of the statues is never clearly established but, in any case, the motion picture producer decided that the combination of miracles and press agentry was too much for him. He agreed to release the picture.

Reviewing this brief, incredible synopsis, I see evidences of a great many other successful works. Mr. Russell Janney, the author, it seems to me has very carefully selected the more important ingredients of "Camille," "How Green Was My Valley," "The Miracle," "A Star Is Born," "Joan of Lorraine" and, very possibly, "The Front Page." More importantly the glory of God and the glamor of Hollywood were helplessly intermingled in what may be the first and—I devoutly hope—the last time in a successful novel.

The story couldn't miss and it didn't. As a matter of fact, I may be the only person in Christendom who neither read the book nor saw the movie. However "The Miracle of The Bells" couldn't be avoided forever and it was finally inflicted on me by means of radio. (Lux Radio Theater C.B.S. 9 p. m. E.D.T. Mondays.)

The picture people, apparently not trusting all the other elements of success in the book, threw in Frank Sinatra for good measure and he appeared in the radio version too. That was my reason for listening. To give him his due, Sinatra was likable though not exactly memorable in the role of Father Paul. The way I look at it, Sinatra has felt rather out of things since Bing Crosby played a priest in "Going My Way." With "The Miracle of The Bells," the two baritones draw up even. As a matter of fact, Sinatra may be a little ahead. He clung staunchly to dialogue throughout the story, emitting no melodies whatsoever, and, after all, Crosby did sing a few songs in "Going My Way."

The reason for going into all this at such length is simply that "The Miracle of The Bells" is illustrative, though not exactly typical, of Lux Theater. Lux Theater is far and away the most popular dramatic show on the air. Invariably it rehashes movies; almost always it has a collection of glittering names in the cast. You get a slick production of a story that smells to high heaven of celluloid. It isn't art but it's glamor of the most expensive sort. As an hour of free entertainment, it couldn't be more restful—if that's what you're seeking.

Offhand I can't recall ever having experienced such concentrated malarkey as "The Miracle of The Bells" and I'm awed at the ability of the author, the producer and the actors to pack it all into a single hour. I'm afraid though, I can't promise that sort of thing every week. Something like "The Miracle of The Bells" comes along only once in a lifetime.

Advice To The Lovelorn

"How Can I Get Him Back?" Is Question Asked By Many Teen-Agers

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

A girl of 19, who signs herself "Baffled," asks me a question that appears in so many of the letters I receive fro mteen-agers that this column is an answer to all of them.

This girl says that she had been seeing a good deal of a certain chap who seemed to enjoy her company as much as she enjoyed his. Because, after going with her for some weeks, he gave her his club pin, she felt she had good ground for believing she really meant something to him.

To her surprise, however, the dates and the phone calls suddenly stopped. There was silence, without any explanation.

"Foolish as I was," she writes, "I stayed in and waited to hear from him. After four days of waiting I went out bowling with my girl friends and there I met him. He spoke to me very casually about things in general and it was then I knew our friendship was over.

"The next day I spoke to him, and he told me he had thought things were getting too serious and he had to stop it. To that I had no answer, so we said good-bye on a friendly basis.

"Please tell me how I can get him back, if possible, for I don't see how a person's mind could change so fast. I also would like to know what you think I should do with his pin, give it back or keep it."

In a situation of this kind it is a smart girl who is willing to realize that there is no program that can be recommended for "getting back" a friend who ardor has cooled. It is completely futile for anyone to try and may out a campaign of strategy to stir up interest where it has been lost. It is not necessarily impossible, of course, for a young man to find out that the girl he left is the one he really wanted, and to try to get her to take him back. But it is only when he has the wish to return himself that there is any hope of a reunion. It cannot be brought about by strategic planning on the girl's part.

It just happens, however, that if a girl is wise enough to accept the situation, and go about her other business, that course sometimes turns out to be a successful one in reviving the ex-boy friend's interest. What she cannot do by conscious trying, sometimes happens very unexpectedly when she is content to leave it alone. Many girls seem to think that to show their departed boy friends that they are devastated by their loss will soften their hearts and bring them back. Actually, however, the reverse of this is true, for no man wants a girl so clinging and spineless that her only happiness is to hang around his neck.

On the other hand, if she shows that she has other interests, and can adjust her life very well without him if she has to, he may come to the conclusion that she is more worthwhile than he had thought. And even if he doesn't she will have done herself a good turn by adopting this course, for it is almost certain in the end to bring her a new heart interest.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

An actor's brain, to coin a seamy simile, is like a midget racing car, it may be small, but it moves plenty fast.

Billy Rose

Example coming up: Back in the '20's, W. C. Fields appeared in an "Earl Carroll's Vanities." One of the great man's comic sketches took place in a dentist's office. On opening night, the prop walls began to topple. Feilds braced them with his back and ad libbed, "They don't build houses these days the way they used to." This crack got a big laugh from the audience, and the falling wall bit was kept in for the rest of the run.

Have another: Toward the end of his caperous career, John Barrymore got mixed up with a sad little farce. One night there weren't more than a dozen spectators out front. Irritated by John's shenanigans, they began to boo. Barrymore stepped to the footlights and said, "You'd better not start anything. Remember—we outnumber you."

And still another: Mascagni, composer of "Cavalleria Rusticana," once heard an organ grinder cranking tinny excerpts from the opera outside his window. Annoyed by the draggy tempo, the composer rushed out and said, "Here, let me show you how it should be played." He gave the handle a few quick turns and went back into the house.

Next day the organ grinder again appeared beneath the composer's window. On his hurdy-gurdy was a neatly lettered sign—"Pupil of Mascagni."

But my favorite nimble-wit story is only a couple of weeks old. For several months now, N.B.C. has been telecasting a puppet show called "Howdy Doody." It's probably the first real smash the new medium has come up with. Bob Smith, the fellow who MCs the show and supplies Howdy's voice, recently announced that the little blockhead was going to run for President. Overnight 60,000 kids wrote in for free buttons and endorsed the platform which promised free lollypops and three Saturdays a week.

In the middle of Howdy's campaign, the studio roof fell in. Frank Paris, the gent who pulled the strings, demanded a salary raise and claimed that the doll and its name belonged to him. N.B.C. admitted it was Frank's puppet but said it owned the copyright to the Howdy Doody monicker. While the contestants were exchanging frowns and legal papers, Bob Smith did some fast figuring.

At 5 o'clock, that afternoon, a map of the United States was flashed on the television screen and Bob announced that Howdy was flying to Portland, Oregon, to take part in the primaries there. For the next hour, kids in six cities chuckled as Howdy reported his progress over the plane's short wave radio. That took care of the Thursday show.

By Saturday, Frank Paris had decided to move his puppet to an opposition network. That afternoon, Howdy called in from Portland to tell Bob Smith that he was worried about his campaign. He had finally come face-to-face with his rival for office, a Mr. X, and discovered him to be the handsomest man in the world. As a desperate bid for the female vote, Howdy said he was going to have his face overhauled by a plastic surgeon so he, too, would be handsome.

Came Tuesday and Howdy kept radioing that he was on his way back. The operation had been a success, but his face would have to remain bandaged for two weeks—doctor's orders. Just before the fade-out, Howdy came crashing through the roof of the RCA building and the telecast ended with the puppet dangling from the ceiling by his parachute.

Since which time, N.B.C. has been advertising "the old voice, the new look." When I saw Howdy's show the other day, he was still wearing his bandages, and the kids who were watching it wit hme were anxiously waiting to see his new face.

Who am I going to vote for this November? Well, judging by the names they're throwing around, it might easily be fast-thinking Howdy Doody.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Lux's Miracle

In "The Miracle of The Bells," as I imagine every woman and child now knows, a girl named Olga attained stardom briefly but gloriously in a single motion picture. The name of the picture was "St. Joan" and Olga turned in what appeared to be the greatest performance of acting in theatrical history. She died, coughing and spitting blood, a matter of hours after the final scene was shot and, in accordance with her death bed wish, her body was transported back to Coaltown, Pensylvania, whence she sprang.

John Crosby

In Coaltown, the tenacity of a press agent augmented by the simple faith of a priest contrived to make Olga's name nationally renowned. The purpose of all this front page publicity was simply to procure the release of the motion picture which the producer would like to scrap. Despite the hullabaloo, it was touch and go until the statues in the church moved. Whether or not Divine intervention had anything to do with the rearrangement of the statues is never clearly established but, in any case, the motion picture producer decided that the combination of miracles and press agentry was too much for him. He agreed to release the picture.

Reviewing this brief, incredible synopsis, I see evidences of a great many other successful works. Mr. Russell Janney, the author, it seems to me has very carefully selected the more important ingredients of "Camille," "How Green Was My Valley," "The Miracle," "A Star Is Born," "Joan of Lorraine" and, very possibly, "The Front Page." More importantly the glory of God and the glamor of Hollywood were helplessly intermingled in what may be the first and—I devoutly hope—the last time in a successful novel.

The story couldn't miss and it didn't. As a matter of fact, I may be the only person in Christendom who neither read the book nor saw the movie. However "The Miracle of The Bells" couldn't be avoided forever and it was finally inflicted on me by means of radio. (Lux Radio Theater C.B.S. 9 p. m. E.D.T. Mondays.)

The picture people, apparently not trusting all the other elements of success in the book, threw in Frank Sinatra for good measure and he appeared in the radio version too. That was my reason for listening. To give him his due, Sinatra was likable though not exactly memorable in the role of Father Paul. The way I look at it, Sinatra has felt rather out of things since Bing Crosby played a priest in "Going My Way." With "The Miracle of The Bells," the two baritones draw up even. As a matter of fact, Sinatra may be a little ahead. He clung staunchly to dialogue throughout the story, emitting no melodies whatsoever, and, after all, Crosby did sing a few songs in "Going My Way."

The reason for going into all this at such length is simply that "The Miracle of The Bells" is illustrative, though not exactly typical, of Lux Theater. Lux Theater is far and away the most popular dramatic show on the air. Invariably it rehashes movies; almost always it has a collection of glittering names in the cast. You get a slick production of a story that smells to high heaven of celluloid. It isn't art but it's glamor of the most expensive sort. As an hour of free entertainment, it couldn't be more restful—if that's what you're seeking.

Offhand I can't recall ever having experienced such concentrated malarkey as "The Miracle of The Bells" and I'm awed at the ability of the author, the producer and the actors to pack it all into a single hour. I'm afraid though, I can't promise that sort of thing every week. Something like "The Miracle of The Bells" comes along only once in a lifetime.

Advice To The Lovelorn

"How Can I Get Him Back?" Is Question Asked By Many Teen-Agers

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

A girl of 19, who signs herself "Baffled," asks me a question that appears in so many of the letters I receive fro mteen-agers that this column is an answer to all of them.

This girl says that she had been seeing a good deal of a certain chap who seemed to enjoy her company as much as she enjoyed his. Because, after going with her for some weeks, he gave her his club pin, she felt she had good ground for believing she really meant something to him.

To her surprise, however, the dates and the phone calls suddenly stopped. There was silence, without any explanation.

"Foolish as I was," she writes, "I stayed in and waited to hear from him. After four days of waiting I went out bowling with my girl friends and there I met him. He spoke to me very casually about things in general and it was then I knew our friendship was over.

"The next day I spoke to him, and he told me he had thought things were getting too serious and he had to stop it. To that I had no answer, so we said good-bye on a friendly basis.

"Please tell me how I can get him back, if possible, for I don5t see how a person's mind could change so fast. I also would like to know what you think I should do with his pin, give it back or keep it."

In a situation of this kind it is a smart girl who is willing to realize that there is no program that can be recommended for "getting back" a friend who ardor has cooled. It is completely futile for anyone to try and may out a campaign of strategy to stir up interest where it has been lost. It is not necessarily impossible, of course, for a young man to find out that the girl he left is the one he really wanted, and to try to get her to take him back. But it is only when he has the wish to return himself that there is any hope of a reunion. It cannot be brought about by strategic planning on the girl's part.

It just happens, however, that if a girl is wise enough to accept the situation, and go about her other business, that course sometimes turns out to be a successful one in reviving the ex-boy friend's interest. What she cannot do by conscious trying, sometimes happens very unexpectedly when she is content to leave it alone. Many girls seem to think that to show their departed boy friends that they are devastated by their loss will soften their hearts and bring them back. Actually, however, the reverse of this is true, for no man wants a girl so clinging and spineless that her only happiness is to hang around his neck.

On the other hand, if she shows that she has other interests, and can adjust her life very well without him if she has to, he may come to the conclusion that she is more worthwhile than he had thought. And even if he doesn't she will have done herself a good turn by adopting this course, for it is almost certain in the end to bring her a new heart interest.

Allegany-Garrett Firemen Will Hold 36th Annual Meet

Bloomington Is Convention Site

The 36th annual convention of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association will be held Thursday in Bloomington, Garrett County.

Member companies will meet in the Bloomington Fire Hall at 1 p. m. Bloomington has planned a full week of activities in observance of the convention.

State Firemen Plan Convention

The 56th annual convention of the Maryland State Firemen's Association will be held in Ocean City, on June 23, 24 and 25.

One of the main issues of the three-day meeting will be the election of officers for the year, with William A. Wilson, Midland, present treasurer, expected to be re-elected to that post. A parade and selection of Miss Firefighter will be features.

Many Cumberland area firemen are making preparations to attend the conclave and take part in the various activities that have been arranged.

The feature of the week's activities will be a parade Thursday night. Fire companies, auxiliaries and bands will march in the procession. Organizations taking part will meet at 7 p. m. (EDT), and the parade is scheduled to start at 7:30.

Prize money amounting to $125 will be offered to the following groups: the three largest companies in line with a band; the company with the most men in line; the company coming the greatest distance; the best-drilled company, and the company making the best appearance in the parade. Prizes of $10 will be awarded to the auxiliary with the most members in line, and to the auxiliary making the best appearance.

Other activities planned by the Bloomington company include a free dance tonight in the fire hall, a parade Tuesday night, to which out-of-state companies have been invited; a dance Wednesday, the grand parade Thursday, auxiliary night Friday, and a dance Saturday. A carnival will be located near the fire hall all week.

Officers for next year will be elected at Thursday's session, and the site of next year's convention will be set. Present officers are William J. Chappell, Barton, president; Joseph Wenrich, Cresaptown, vice president; Chester W. Shimer, Westernport, secretary, and L. E. Worthman, Luke, treasurer.

Auxiliaries of the companies will meet at 1:30 p. m. Thursday.

Meyersdale Girl Hurt In Accident

An 18-year-old Meyersdale, Pa., girl was treated in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, last night at 11 o'clock for a chin laceration, police said, after the car in which she was riding crashed against the rear of a truck on Big Savage Mountain, Route 40.

Trooper Blair Buckel, Maryland State Police, identified the driver of the car in which Miss Ruth Shockey, 18, was riding as Raymond Hetz, 21, Meyersdale, and said his car struck a truck operated by John Lewis Diehl, Mt. Savage.

Hetz was quoted by police as saying the road was slippery from recent rain and he collided with the rear of the truck as he began to descend the west side of Big Savage Mountain en route to Meyersdale.

Miss Shockey was treated at the hospital and discharged. Police said damage to the car will amount to $250.

New State Sales Tax Exemptions Announced

James J. Lacy, state comptroller, announces two modifications of sales tax regulations which were covered in two bills passed at the recent special session of the Legislature.

The sales tax will no longer be collected on corrective eyeglasses or wheel chairs for invalids, the infirm and ill. At the same time, the sales tax division pointed out that the sales tax will still apply to sunglasses and goggles such as are used for welders.

The second bill affecting all who collect the tax, does away with the requirement for the filing of annual reports by licensees under the Sales Tax Act. Heretofore, annual reports were required from each licensee, to be filed within 30 days after the close of his tax year, either on a calendar or fiscal basis. Monthly reports still are required.

The Woman's Guild of Holy Cross Church will meet at 6 p. m. on Wednesday, June 9. This will be the last meeting until fall.

The Weather

Low hanging clouds engulfed the Cumberland area yesterday, staving off the hot spell that was promised. The weather was rather cool for swimming as the high for the day was 75 degrees. The cool wind assisted in keeping the mercury down. The low for the 24-hour period was 54 degrees. The reading at 10:30 last night was 64, but with the rain was expected to dip to the low 50's before morning. The forecast for today isn't too promising either, with increasing cloudiness followed by scattered showers and probably thunderstorms predicted. Little change in temperature is anticipated.

HOUR OF RELAXATION--Mrs. Charles Wesley Ravenscroft, 82, near McCoole, is shown reading the New Testament to her husband, Charles Wesley Ravenscroft, 85, a nightly "must" on the schedule for the elderly couple, who are living happily on $42 a month at their 21-acre farm. The couple have been married 63 years.

Hirsch Retires As B'er Chayim Temple Head

Clarence Lippel Is Named New President

The Jewish race is growing older but not old, Rabbi Mordecai Soloff, Baltimore, told members of B'er Chayim Congregation last night at a celebration of the religious unit's 95th anniversary and the retirement of Isaac Hirsch who has been president for the past 32 years.

As Hebrewism approaches its fifth millennium, the Rabbi said its people find themselves in the midst of re-establishing a new commonwealth amid world apathy and indifference. This, he declared, is indicative that the Jewish race is not old.

"The same is true of this congregation," Rabbi Soloff said, "since it is now completing 95 years of service to God, man and country, with one intention in mind—doing a greater service in the years to come."

Mr. Hirsch, the retiring president, "like the Jewish race and the Cumberland congregation is growing older but not old," Rabbi Soloff said as he turned to honor the second president who has headed the congregation since his father retired 32 years ago after founding it.

"He has lain down the gavel of Ba'er Chayim in fact but will continue to be active in its works and interests, always ready to direct the youthful leader who is succeeding him."

Clarence Lippel succeeded Mr. Hirsch as president of the congregation, and spoke briefly at the testimonial dinner last night in honor of Mr. Hirsch and the anniversary of the congregation.

Besides Lippel, the new president, other present officers of the Temple, which is one of the oldest Reformed Jewish congregations in America, includes Aaron Lazarus, honorary vice president; Irving Rosenbaum, vice president; Milton Beneman, secretary, and Morton Peskin, treasurer. Mr. Hirsch was designated president-emeritus.

The committee in charge of the program included Dr. Samuel Jacobson, chairman, Mrs. Irving Millenson; Clarence Lippel, Mrs. Harry Beneman, Michael Beerman, Mrs. David Kauffman and Mark Lazarus.

High Cost Of Living Fails To Invade 21-Acre Farm Of C. W. Ravenscroft

Couple Get Monthly Relief Check Of $42

So you think you have a hard time getting along on your monthly salary? Then consider how an 85-year-old husband and his 83-year-old wife get along comfortably on a combined relief check of $42.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Ravenscroft, near McCoole, own their own seven-room house and each receives a $21 check monthly from the relief board. They are happy and have practically all they want in life.

The couple married in 1885, just two years after the husband had purchased the 21¼ acre farm on an unimproved road near McCoole where the mail man doesn't even come by for his daily chat. They still live at the same place.

Happily married is putting it mildly, as they have never had a "spat" since they were bound in holy wedlock. When things get a little tough, "Charlie" puts on his hat and "skoots" out of the way until things blow over. He's really a prince of a husband, his wife said. He doesn't smoke, chew scrap, drink whisky or swear. Yes, he related, once "I did curse and I feel sheepish about telling it," he continued, "I told a young fellow to keep his damn mouth shut, but that's the only time and me and him is the best of friends."

Farm Is Neat

The farm, which overlooks the Western Maryland Railway tracks, is as neat as a pin with no thing out of place. When asked if his wife was a good housekeeper, Ravenscroft replied, "the best ever." And for her cooking, she is tops, "just like her mother."

In the yard at the front and at the side are beautiful rose bushes and several large trees, which were planted by the couple over 50 years ago.

Mrs. Ravenscroft is an admirer of flowers and spends considerable time working with them during the summer months. Another thing the woman of the house prides herself in, is baking delicious cakes and pastries, especially ones with thick icing.

Susan, as her husband calls her, enjoys the life of a farm woman, and likes company to drop in for visits. She gets a little lonesome at times, but has her pet dog "Tipsey" to keep her busy.

As for sickness, they have never spent over $5 for medicine in their lifetime. But just now Mr. Ravenscroft is suffering from misery in his shoulder and his eyesight isn't just what it used to be, but he still manages to do the chores around the house. In fact, his chores would stump most city fellows, as he has a large garden where he grows his own onions, sweet corn, carrots, cabbage and potatoes. And until last year, he raised his own meat.

Charles W. Ravenscroft, and the W. is for Wesley, he added, was born at 21st Bridge near McCoole and his wife, Susan Anne, was born near Allegany.

Once Was Railroader

In his early days, "Charlie" was a foreman for the West Virginia-Central-Pittsburgh Railway, later to be known as Western Maryland Railway. He was a foreman for the fabulous salary of $40 a month. He worked for 24 years with that company, and later joined the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, where he stayed eight years. He draws no pension from either company, as he recalls all known records were burned at the company's offices when a big fire swept the building. He reckons he could still get it, but doesn't like to push people. In fact, he is the kind of a fellow who goes out of his way to avoid any trouble.

A sad note was brought into the conversation when the question was asked whether they had any children. One son was born to the couple, and he died when he was 21 years old. According to the father, "a stouter boy never lived."

For relatives, they have "oodles and gobs" of them who come out about every two weeks. Some of them who visit are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mott, Keyser; Nellie Brewer, Baltimore; a Mrs. Murphy and Mary Ann Bittner, both of Frostburg, and others.

A life long member of the Northern Methodist Church, near McCoole the couple were active in all church activities. It was a sad day when the church was moved. The worst sin today, believes Mr. Ravenscroft, is the "evil of whisky traffic."

Reads From Bible

As his eyes are dimming, Mrs. Ravenscroft reads to her husband every night from the Bible. This is

Miss Cumberland Rehearsals Start Tomorrow Night

Pageant Applications Still Being Accepted

Rehearsals for the Miss Cumberland pageant will begin tomorrow night in the City Hall auditorium. The rehearsals will be in charge of Jack Moore, assisted by Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Dixie Rafter Ballard. Miss Jean Dixon, Miss Cumberland and Miss Maryland of last year is expected home from school Wednesday, June 9, and will assist in staging this year's show.

Miss Dixon has been attending St. Mary's Seminary, St. Mary's City, ever since her return from Atlantic City last September, when she represented Maryland in the 1947 Miss America pageant.

Miss Maryland Writes

In a recent letter to the Jaycees she stated, "I am looking forward to helping you stage this year's Miss Cumberland pageant. I shall always remember my experiences of last year and feel that I was privileged to have taken part in it. I do hope the Jaycess continue to sponsor the pageant in Cumberland and give other girls the same chance they gave me. We all learned a lot last year and I think I can be of some help to this year's entrants. I would like to tell all the Cumberland girls eligible to enter that I certainly recommend the contest in every way. I had no idea when I entered last year that it was going to be the wonderful experience that it turned out to be. It was a grand opportunity and no eligible Cumberland girl should pass it up."

Entrants will be interviewed first regarding their preference in the talent requirement and all rules and regulations will be explained to them. Mrs. Ballard and Mrs. Moore will then teach them the correct way to walk, pivot and pose in this type of pageant.

This preliminary training will stand them in good stead next week, even before the Miss Cumberland pageant is presented at Fort Hill auditorium Monday, June 21. Six days before that date the Miss Cumberland entrants will be the models in the summer fashion revue to be presented at the Celanese pool by Rosenbaum's. This summer style show is scheduled for Tuesday, June 15, at 8:30 p. m. There will be no admission charge.

Blanks Still Available

Applications are still being accepted by the Jaycees. Extra blanks are available at the Jaycee office, 514 Liberty Trust Building, or from members of the entries committee.

Jack Hendricks, chairman of the entries committee, said yesterday, "Any Cumberland girl who is interested in taking part in this year's Miss Cumberland pageant can obtain full details by calling the Jaycee office at 29 or calling me at 1440. A member of the entries committee will call on her at her home and explain any details that may not be completely clear."

Entrants for the Miss Cumberland pageant must be between the ages of 18 and 28 on September 1 this year and must be single. The winner will be selected on the basis of judging in evening gown, bathing suit, talent, poise and personality. She will represent Cumberland in the Miss Maryland finals August 2 at Fort Hill auditorium.

World War II Veterans May Convert Service Insurance, Says VA Officer

A World War II veteran who wants to convert his term National Service Life Insurance policy to a permanent type may choose any one of six plans or a combination of some of these, W. A. Burns, officer in charge of the Cumberland office of the Veterans Administration, has announced.

These six plans are: ordinary life, 30-payment life, 20-payment life, 20-year endowment, endowment at age 60, and endowment at age 65. A veteran is limited to a maximum of $10,000 of insurance, but he can divide this between two or more plans.

Veterans wishing help in converting their policies should call at the local VA office, Room 328, Post Office building, said Burns, or an ex-serviceman may make the change by writing direct to the Insurance Director, Veterans Administration, 900 North Lombardy Street, Richmond 20, Va.

A National Service Life Insurance policy taken out prior to January 1, 1946, may be carried for eight years from the date of issuance before it must be converted to a permanent plan. Policies issued since then must be converted within five years from the date issued.

VA suggests to veterans that they not convert until they are settled in their jobs and can afford larger premiums, asserted Burns. But it is to the veteran's advantage to convert when he is able, the VA officer added.

Truck Strikes Crash Wreckage And Turns Over

Driver Of One Car Summoned For Trial

A two-car collison on Route 220 near Rawlings at 12:35 a. m. yesterday led to a second accident an hour and a half later when a pick-up truck struck one of the previously wrecked cars and turned over, according to Maryland State Police.

David Wotring, 34, Grafton, W. Va., was driving toward Keyser, W. Va., according to Trooper William McElfish, when his car sideswiped a machine operated by Charles E. Brown, 46, 433 Virginia Avenue.

Wotring's car was turned completely around by the impact, according to Trooper McElfish, and Brown's car was knocked off the road on to the dirt shoulder. Neither man was injured.

As police waited for a rigger truck to move the two damaged cars, Trooper McElfish said a third car operated by Harry F. Kyer, Gassaway, W. Va., headed toward Cumberland, struck the machine of Wotring and turned over on its side 100 feet from the scene of the original accident. Kyer also escaped injury.

Brown, according to Trooper McElfish, was summoned for a hearing on a charge of violating a state motor law.

In West Virginia five persons, including three children, suffered minor injuries when two cars sideswiped on Route 50, four miles west of Mt. Storm yesterday afternoon at 2 p. m. (EST).

Trooper C. H. Lewis, West Virginia State Police, said Mrs. Virginia Lee Phares, 25, Valley Bend, W. Va., was summoned for a hearing on a charge of hazardous driving after her machine sideswiped a car operated by David Stuart Sherrard, 27, Inwood, W. Va.

All of the injured were riding in Mrs. Phares' car, police said. The injured, who received first aid at the scene of the accident, were identified as Nacel Spencer, 22, Keyser, her son David, 2, and Patty, 4, and Charles Phares, 7, children of Mrs. Phares. Police said Mrs. Phares also suffered minor lacerations.

Damage to the two cars was estimated at $350 by police who said the fronts of both cars were badly wrecked.

Graduates At Two Catholic Schools Receive Diplomas

Brother James Warns Of World Conditions

Two local Catholic high schools yesterday presented diplomas to graduating classes as public high schools in the city and throughout the county ushered in commencement week with baccalaureate services and sermons by local ministers.

Girls' Catholic Central High School awarded diplomas to 15 graduates at services in St. Patrick's Church yesterday morning, where Very Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor, delivered the graduation sermon.

In Carroll Hall last night 48 seniors of LaSalle High School who received diplomas heard Rev. Brother E. James, F.S.C., LL.D. director general at the Ammendale, Md., motherhouse of the Christian Brothers, warn them they were heading into a somber world.

"The world in which we live is in a state of unrest," Brother James told the graduates, adding that the great hope of righting present conditions "springs eternal in the hearts of those who trust in God.

Expresses Confusion

"There is no word heard more often today than the word democracy," Brother James asserted, "and there is none that more clearly indicates the confusion of the modern mind than the various and ever contradictory ideas that the word is used to express."

Brother James told the graduates that they are equipped with the christian teachings of the brothers and said "as christians we must clearly understand that we have a vital interest in preserving the democratic way of life.

"We are all conscious that something ails the world and we are all honestly seeking the cure," he declared, "but we in our blindness are trying to heal organic ills with mechanical remedies."

As a parting word to the graduates Brother James said, "We cannot take refuge in good intentions, or merely in the possession of good principles. Nothing is more disastrous than good principles badly applied," he warned the students.

Both Allegany and Fort Hill High graduates attended baccalaureate services in their school auditoriums yesterday afternoon where Cumberland ministers delivered pre-commencement sermons and conducted services.

Receive Communion

Students of Ursuline Girl's Academy attended mass and received communion yesterday morning at SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church and then were served breakfast at the Clary Club.

Carver High School students were addressed yesterday by Rev. Ramsey Bridges, a former Cumberland Minister, and Beall High students attended services in their school auditorium in Frostburg.

In Lonaconing, Westernport, Barton, Flintstone and Oldtown, public high school graduates also opened the commencement week with baccalaureate services yesterday afternoon and night.

Meyersdale Girl Hurt In Accident

An 18-year-old Meyersdale, Pa., girl was treated in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, last night at 11 o'clock for a chin laceration, police said, after the car in which she was riding crashed against the rear of a truck on Big Savage Mountain, Route 40.

Trooper Blair Buckel, Maryland State Police, identified the driver of the car in which Miss Ruth Shockey, 18, was riding as Raymond Hetz, 21, Meyersdale, and said his car struck a truck operated by John Lewis Diehl, Mt. Savage.

Hetz was quoted by police as saying the road was slippery from recent rain and he collided with the rear of the truck as he began to descend the west side of Big Savage Mountain en route to Meyersdale.

Miss Shockey was treated at the hospital and discharged. Police said damage to the car will amount to $250.

New State Sales Tax Exemptions Announced

James J. Lacy, state comptroller, announces two modifications of sales tax regulations which were covered in two bills passed at the recent special session of the Legislature.

The sales tax will no longer be collected on corrective eyeglasses or wheel chairs for invalids, the infirm and ill. At the same time, the sales tax division pointed out that the sales tax will still apply to sunglasses and goggles such as are used for welders.

The second bill affecting all who collect the tax, does away with the requirement for the filing of annual reports by licensees under the Sales Tax Act. Heretofore, annual reports were required from each licensee, to be filed within 30 days after the close of his tax year, either on a calendar or fiscal basis. Monthly reports still are required.

Woman's Guild To Meet

The Woman's Guild of Holy Cross Church will meet at 6 p. m. on Wednesday, June 9. This will be the last meeting until fall.

The Weather

Low hanging clouds engulfed the Cumberland area yesterday, staving off the hot spell that was promised. The weather was rather cool for swimming as the high for the day was 75 degrees. The cool wind assisted in keeping the mercury down. The low for the 24-hour period was 54 degrees. The reading at 10:30 last night was 64, but with the rain was expected to dip to the low 50's before morning. The forecast for today isn't too promising either, with increasing cloudiness followed by scattered showers and probably thunderstorms predicted. Little change in temperature is anticipated.

HOUR OF RELAXATION--Mrs. Charles Wesley Ravenscroft, 82, near McCoole, is shown reading the New Testament to her husband, Charles Wesley Ravenscroft, 85, a nightly "must" on the schedule for the elderly couple, who are living happily on $42 a month at their 21-acre farm. The couple have been married 63 years.

Hirsch Retires As B'er Chayim Temple Head

Clarence Lippel Is Named New President

The Jewish race is growing older but not old, Rabbi Mordecai Soloff, Baltimore, told members of B'er Chayim Congregation last night at a celebration of the religious unit's 95th anniversary and the retirement of Isaac Hirsch who has been president for the past 32 years.

As Hebrewism approaches its fifth millennium, the Rabbi said its people find themselves in the midst of re-establishing a new commonwealth amid world apathy and indifference. This, he declared, is indicative that the Jewish race is not old.

"The same is true of this congregation," Rabbi Soloff said, "since it is now completing 95 years of service to God, man and country, with one intention in mind—doing a greater service in the years to come."

Mr. Hirsch, the retiring president, "like the Jewish race and the Cumberland congregation is growing older but not old," Rabbi Soloff said as he turned to honor the second president who has headed the congregation since his father retired 32 years ago after founding it.

"He has lain down the gavel of Ba'er Chayim in fact but will continue to be active in its works and interests, always ready to direct the youthful leader who is succeeding him."

Clarence Lippel succeeded Mr. Hirsch as president of the congregation, and spoke briefly at the testimonial dinner last night in honor of Mr. Hirsch and the anniversary of the congregation.

A pageant, "Century of Progress," was presented at the celebration which attracted several former members from distant cities. Mrs. David Kauffman directed and staged the pageant.

Besides Lippel, the new president, other present officers of the Temple, which is one of the oldest Reformed Jewish congregations in America, includes Aaron Lazarus, honorary vice president; Irving Rosenbaum, vice president; Milton Beneman, secretary, and Morton Peskin, treasurer. Mr. Hirsch was designated president-emeritus.

The committee in charge of the program included Dr. Samuel Jacobson, chairman, Mrs. Irving Millenson; Clarence Lippel, Mrs. Harry Beneman, Michael Beerman, Mrs. David Kauffman and Mark Lazarus.

High Cost Of Living Fails To Invade 21-Acre Farm Of C. W. Ravenscroft

Couple Get Monthly Relief Check Of $42

So you think you have a hard time getting along on your monthly salary? Then consider how an 85-year-old husband and his 83-year-old wife get along comfortably on a combined relief check of $42.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Ravenscroft, near McCoole, own their own seven-room house and each receives a $21 check monthly from the relief board. They are happy and have practically all they want in life.

The couple married in 1885, just two years after the husband had purchased the 21¼ acre farm on an unimproved road near McCoole where the mail man doesn't even come by for his daily chat. They still live at the same place.

Happily married is putting it mildly, as they have never had a "spat" since they were bound in holy wedlock. When things get a little tough, "Charlie" puts on his hat and "skoots" out of the way until things blow over. He's really a prince of a husband, his wife said. He doesn't smoke, chew scrap, drink whisky or swear. Yes, he related, once "I did curse and I feel sheepish about telling it," he continued, "I told a young fellow to keep his damn mouth shut, but that's the only time and me and him is the best of friends."

Farm Is Neat

The farm, which overlooks the Western Maryland Railway tracks, is as neat as a pin with no thing out of place. When asked if his wife was a good housekeeper, Ravenscroft replied, "the best ever." And for her cooking, she is tops, "just like her mother."

In the yard at the front and at the side are beautiful rose bushes and several large trees, which were planted by the couple over 50 years ago.

Mrs. Ravenscroft is an admirer of flowers and spends considerable time working with them during the summer months. Another thing the woman of the house prides herself in, is baking delicious cakes and pastries, especially ones with thick icing.

Susan, as her husband calls her, enjoys the life of a farm woman, and likes company to drop in for visits. She gets a little lonesome at times, but has her pet dog "Tipsey" to keep her busy.

She has one known oddity about her home. She doesn't like to see pictures on the wall as can be evidenced by the picture-free interior.

As for sickness, they have never spent over $5 for medicine in their lifetime. But just now Mr. Ravenscroft is suffering from misery in his shoulder and his eyesight isn't just what it used to be, but he still manages to do the chores around the house. In fact, his chores would stump most city fellows, as he has a large garden where he grows his own onions, sweet corn, carrots, cabbage and potatoes. And until last year, he raised his own meat.

Charles W. Ravenscroft, and the W. is for Wesley, he added, was born at 21st Bridge near McCoole and his wife, Susan Anne, was born near Allegany.

Once Was Railroader

In his early days, "Charlie" was a foreman for the West Virginia-Central-Pittsburgh Railway, later to be known as Western Maryland Railway. He was a foreman for the fabulous salary of $40 a month. He worked for 24 years with that company, and later joined the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, where he stayed eight years. He draws no pension from either company, as he recalls all known records were burned at the company's offices when a big fire swept the building. He reckons he could still get it, but doesn't like to push people. In fact, he is the kind of a fellow who goes out of his way to avoid any trouble.

A sad note was brought into the conversation when the question was asked whether they had any children. One son was born to the couple, and he died when he was 21 years old. According to the father, "a stouter boy never lived."

For relatives, they have "oodles and gobs" of them who come out about every two weeks. Some of them who visit are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mott, Keyser; Nellie Brewer, Baltimore; a Mrs. Murphy and Mary Ann Bittner, both of Frostburg, and others.

A life long member of the Northern Methodist Church, near McCoole the couple were active in all church activities. It was a sad day when the church was moved. The worst sin today, believes Mr. Ravenscroft, is the "evil of whisky traffic."

Reads From Bible

Miss Cumberland Rehearsals Start Tomorrow Night

Pageant Applications Still Being Accepted

Rehearsals for the Miss Cumberland pageant will begin tomorrow night in the City Hall auditorium. The rehearsals will be in charge of Jack Moore, assisted by Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Dixie Rafter Ballard. Miss Jean Dixon, Miss Cumberland and Miss Maryland of last year is expected home from school Wednesday, June 9, and will assist in staging this year's show.

Miss Dixon has been attending St. Mary's Seminary, St. Mary's City, ever since her return from Atlantic City last September, when she represented Maryland in the 1947 Miss America pageant.

Miss Maryland Writes

In a recent letter to the Jaycees she stated, "I am looking forward to helping you stage this year's Miss Cumberland pageant. I shall always remember my experiences of last year and feel that I was privileged to have taken part in it. I do hope the Jaycess continue to sponsor the pageant in Cumberland and give other girls the same chance they gave me. We all learned a lot last year and I think I can be of some help to this year's entrants. I would like to tell all the Cumberland girls eligible to enter that I certainly recommend the contest in every way. I had no idea when I entered last year that it was going to be the wonderful experience that it turned out to be. It was a grand opportunity and no eligible Cumberland girl should pass it up."

Entrants will be interviewed first regarding their preference in the talent requirement and all rules and regulations will be explained to them. Mrs. Ballard and Mrs. Moore will then teach them the correct way to walk, pivot and pose in this type of pageant.

This preliminary training will stand them in good stead next week, even before the Miss Cumberland pageant is presented at Fort Hill auditorium Monday, June 21. Six days before that date the Miss Cumberland entrants will be the models in the summer fashion revue to be presented at the Celanese pool by Rosenbaum's. This summer style show is scheduled for Tuesday, June 15, at 8:30 p. m. There will be no admission charge.

Blanks Still Available

Applications are still being accepted by the Jaycees. Extra blanks are available at the Jaycee office, 514 Liberty Trust Building, or from members of the entries committee.

Jack Hendricks, chairman of the entries committee, said yesterday, "Any Cumberland girl who is interested in taking part in this year's Miss Cumberland pageant can obtain full details by calling the Jaycee office at 29 or calling me at 1440. A member of the entries committee will call on her at her home and explain any details that may not be completely clear."

Entrants for the Miss Cumberland pageant must be between the ages of 18 and 28 on September 1 this year and must be single. The winner will be selected on the basis of judging in evening gown, bathing suit, talent, poise and personality. She will represent Cumberland in the Miss Maryland finals August 2 at Fort Hill auditorium.

World War II Veterans May Convert Service Insurance, Says VA Officer

A World War II veteran who wants to convert his term National Service Life Insurance policy to a permanent type may choose any one of six plans or a combination of some of these, W. A. Burns, officer in charge of the Cumberland office of the Veterans Administration, has announced.

These six plans are: ordinary life, 30-payment life, 20-payment life, 20-year endowment, endowment at age 60, and endowment at age 65. A veteran is limited to a maximum of $10,000 of insurance, but he can divide this between two or more plans.

Veterans wishing help in converting their policies should call at the local VA office, Room 328, Post Office building, said Burns, or an ex-serviceman may make the change by writing direct to the Insurance Director, Veterans Administration, 900 North Lombardy Street, Richmond 20, Va.

A National Service Life Insurance policy taken out prior to January 1, 1946, may be carried for eight years from the date of issuance before it must be converted to a permanent plan. Policies issued since then must be converted within five years from the date issued.

VA suggests to veterans that they not convert until they are settled in their jobs and can afford larger premiums, asserted Burns. But it is to the veteran's advantage to convert when he is able, the VA officer added.

Truck Strikes Crash Wreckage And Turns Over

Driver Of One Car Summoned For Trial

A two-car collison on Route 220 near Rawlings at 12:35 a. m. yesterday led to a second accident an hour and a half later when a pick-up truck struck one of the previously wrecked cars and turned over, according to Maryland State Police.

David Wotring, 34, Grafton, W. Va., was driving toward Keyser, W. Va., according to Trooper William McElfish, when his car sideswiped a machine operated by Charles E. Brown, 46, 433 Virginia Avenue.

Wotring's car was turned completely around by the impact, according to Trooper McElfish, and Brown's car was knocked off the road on to the dirt shoulder. Neither man was injured.

As police waited for a rigger truck to move the two damaged cars, Trooper McElfish said a third car operated by Harry F. Kyer, Gassaway, W. Va., headed toward Cumberland, struck the machine of Wotring and turned over on its side 100 feet from the scene of the original accident. Kyer also escaped injury.

Brown, according to Trooper McElfish, was summoned for a hearing on a charge of violating a state motor law.

In West Virginia five persons, including three children, suffered minor injuries when two cars sideswiped on Route 50, four miles west of Mt. Storm yesterday afternoon at 2 p. m. (EST).

Trooper C. H. Lewis, West Virginia State Police, said Mrs. Virginia Lee Phares, 25, Valley Bend, W. Va., was summoned for a hearing on a charge of hazardous driving after her machine sideswiped a car operated by David Stuart Sherrard, 27, Inwood, W. Va.

All of the injured were riding in Mrs. Phares' car, police said. The injured, who received first aid at the scene of the accident, were identified as Nacel Spencer, 22, Keyser, her son David, 2, and Fatty, 4, and Charles Phares, 7, children of Mrs. Phares. Police said Mrs. Phares also suffered minor lacerations.

Damage to the two cars was estimated at $350 by police who said the fronts of both cars were badly wrecked.

Graduates At Two Catholic Schools Receive Diplomas

Brother James Warns Of World Conditions

Two local Catholic high schools yesterday presented diplomas to graduating classes as public high schools in the city and throughout the county ushered in commencement week with baccalaureate services and sermons by local ministers.

Girls' Catholic Central High School awarded diplomas to 15 graduates at services in St. Patrick's Church yesterday morning, where Very Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor, delivered the graduation sermon.

In Carroll Hall last night 48 seniors of LaSalle High School who received diplomas heard Rev. Brother E. James, F.S.C., LL.D. director general at the Ammendale, Md., motherhouse of the Christian Brothers, warn them they were heading into a somber world.

"The world in which we live is in a state of unrest," Brother James told the graduates, adding that the great hope of righting present conditions "springs eternal in the hearts of those who trust in God.

Expresses Confusion

"There is no word heard more often today than the word democracy," Brother James asserted, "and there is none that more clearly indicates the confusion of the modern mind than the various and ever contradictory ideas that the word is used to express."

Brother James told the graduates that they are equipped with the christian teachings of the brothers and said "as christians we must clearly understand that we have a vital interest in preserving the democratic way of life.

"We are all conscious that something ails the world and we are all honestly seeking the cure," he declared, "but we in our blindness are trying to heal organic ills with mechanical remedies."

As a parting word to the graduates Brother James said, "We cannot take refuge in good intentions, or merely in the possession of good principles. Nothing is more disastrous than good principles badly applied," he warned the students.

Both Allegany and Fort Hill High graduates attended baccalaureate services in their school auditoriums yesterday afternoon where Cumberland ministers delivered pre-commencement sermons and conducted services.

Receive Communion

Students of Ursuline Girl's Academy attended mass and received communion yesterday morning at SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church and then were served breakfast at the Clary Club.

Carver High School students were addressed yesterday by Rev. Ramsey Bridges, a former Cumberland Minister, and Beall High students attended services in their school auditorium in Frostburg.

In Lonaconing, Westernport, Barton, Flintstone and Oldtown, public high school graduates also opened the commencement week with baccalaureate services yesterday afternoon and night.
